—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 25.

Divorce cases are interesting, provocation extreme, and nearly always on the side of the husband.

One lady, Mrs. Elmer Nelson, whose husband works in a bakery, paid no attention, at first, when he talked in his sleep about "Sweet Cookie." She thought he was dreaming about business. But when he coupled the word "Mamma," with "sweet cookie" she became suspicious and asked a divorce.

ANOTHER married lady objected to her husband's use and abuse of the radio. She told the judge, "he turns it on as loud as he can, and then beats me, and the radio keeps the neighbors from hearing me yell."

She got her divorce.

WE ARE learning to take orders, justifying Northcliffe's statement "the Americans are a docile people."

Then he knew it was the "daily dozen" and took his arms down.

THE national business survey conference of the United States Chamber of Commerce tells President Hoover business has returned to near normal—nothing to worry about, no need for unusual stimulation.

SEVERAL million Americans, out of work, would enjoy a little stimulation if it got them a job. It is, however, a comfort to know that general business, on which all jobs depend, is doing well and that members of national commissions feel optimistic and comfortable.

NEWS to worry grain merchants in Europe and interest American farmers.

Russia's Soviet steamer, Proletariat, arrives in the Baltic with 2,500 tons of grain offered by the "Soviet trade legation" at prices 25 to 35 cents a bushel below world market prices.

COMMUNIST Russia promises heavy exports of rye, oats, barley, fodder, and will if necessary cut prices ruthlessly.

Russia's government really interests itself in farmers, buying tractors for them by the thousands, experimenting intelligently with wholesale farming, destined to solve the farm production problem as wholesale manufacturing has solved automobile production.

G. E. MARCHAND, head of the National University Society, tells Pasadena ladies, "woman is changing mentally as educational methods change."

The "beautiful-but-dumb" type is rapidly vanishing, says the learned one. The ladies are just as beautiful, but no longer dumb.

THEY never were dumb, as a matter of fact, from Eve onward. Many women, understanding foolish man, have pretended to be less intelligent than they were. Man wishes to feel superior mentally, and to bring that about, it is usually necessary for the woman to conceal much of her intelligence.

CHARLES BLAKE, a miner 50 years old, tired of life and prospecting with poor prospects, put a stick of dynamite on his head, lighted the fuse and waited.

The man stood, the explosion blew his skull to atoms, and shook buildings for several blocks.

AIRPLANE travel rates drop rapidly. You fly from Los Angeles to San Francisco, 400 air miles, returning in a Southern Pacific sleeper, for $38 a round trip.

The T. A. T.-Maddux Air Line reports loads 90 to 95 per cent capacity. Eighteen planes added to the service to provide for increased business.

UNITED STATES authorities at San Diego are shocked to learn that the "irrigation committee" of the American Legion was organized at the state convention last year, to "irrigate" delegates with liquid refreshments that would not make them blind or send them home in pine boxes.

Raiders seized $27,000 worth of liquor guaranteed not to destroy the kidneys in less than two years.

ONE THREAT TO SUCCESS REMOVED

'Big Five' Agree to Drop Subject of Eliminating Biggest Ships From Agenda

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—All question of the London Naval Conference considering the abolition of battleships has been definitely squelched and the subject won't even be given a place in the agenda when the "big five" meet to discuss procedure on Monday.

This was learned by International News Service from an official source today.

The tentative agenda which Premier MacDonald prepared originally contained the question of "abolition or retention of battleships" but after consultation with the others of the "big five," the Premier agreed that it would be better to leave the question out.

This was found satisfactory to all the delegates and one possible obstacle to agreement among them was thereby removed.

The question of limiting the size and number of battleships will be given a place in the agenda, but only after limitation of each category of the auxiliary craft has been definitely settled.

American insistence on this point was due to a determination to prevent recurrence of the experience suffered by the American delegates at the Washington conference of 1921-1922. In that conference the United States sacrificed her world superiority in battleships only to find later that it was impossible to obtain limitation of other categories of ships, such as cruisers, in which the United States was sadly deficient.

When the United States delegates left Washington for London they carried with them instructions to insist upon the discussion of cruisers first and events this week strongly confirmed their determination of following this procedure.

DRY AID BEFORE REALTORS

A proposal that real estate men here co-operate with prohibition officials in keeping buildings free of bootleggers will be considered by the board of governors of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board next week, according to J. R. Brady, executive secretary.

The request was made to Brady, he said, recently by a representative of Administrator John D. Pennington's office.

Numerous real estate organizations throughout the country are aiding the prohibition officers, according to high enforcement officials at Washington, by notifying administrators of law violations.

"I feel sure that the real estate brokers of this city will be glad to co-operate," said Brady. "It sometimes happens that buildings are leased to tenants who are regarded as reputable both by the owners and the brokers, and who later prove to be lawbreakers. In such cases the real estate agents have only one course and that is to aid in upholding the law."

Fire Routs 200 Women Guests At Card Party

Groping blindly through smoke-filled halls, 200 women, most of them guests at a card party, made their way to safety last night when fire threatened to destroy the Masonic Building, Penn and Grant streets, Turtle Creek. Two of 10 telephone operators routed by the flames were overcome. Another woman was carried from her apartment by firemen. Fire Chief E. D. Kenyon estimated the damage at $35,000.

The women, guests of Shiloh Court No. 45, Order of Amaranth, were attendig a card party on the third floor of the three-story building. On the second floor were the ten operators of the Bell Telephone Company. Flames had gained considerable headway when discovered and firemen directed their efforts to getting the women out of the building.

PANIC PREVENTED

The fire was discovered by Miss Rose Schwab, chief operator on duty at the telephone exchange. She summoned Volunteer Firemen of No. 1 Company, Turtle Creek.

The services of almost three score firemen, were required to prevent a panic and lead the women to safety. The women were escorted from the rear to the front of the third floor and then down smoke-filled stairs to the street. The telephone operators were taken down a side stairway to the street. They agreed to desert their posts only after firemen returned to the building three times to warn them of danger. The two who suffered from smoke were revived upon reaching the open air.

Mrs. Nellie Bishop, a widow, who has an apartment on the second floor, was alone in her quarters at the time. Firemen had

DENY LAWYER PERMIT TO SEE IRENE

Blonde Suspect Being Held Incommunicado at Jail; Donnie in New Castle

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Jan. 25.—Alone in her cell at the Lawrence County Jail today, Irene Schroeder, blonde trigger woman suspect, has time for pondering her fate. Her alleged gunman sweetheart, Walter Glenn Dague, brought back with her last night from Phoenix, Ariz., to face a charge of murder in connection with the killing of Highway Patrol Corporal Brady Paul, also finds himself in solitude.

Little Donnie, five-year-old son of the chubby blonde, blissfully unaware of all the excitement he has caused with his boyish boast—"Mama shot two cops," waits for authorities to take him to see that same "Mama." The little fellow stood looking out of a window across the street from the jail last night when she was whisked from an automobile into her cell.

The boy was brought back to the home of a probation officer, near the jail, after being spirited away several days ago when court action was threatened to remove him from custody of Lawrence County authorities.

Irene today expressed a desire to see Donnie, as well as other members of her family, except her father. "I can't bear to face him," she said.

Sheriff Frank Johnson is holding Irene incommunicado, not letting anyone see her. K. H. Powell, of Youngstown, O., an attorney, asked permission to talk to the woman, saying he had been engaged as counsel for her by her

DRY GUNS CLAIM HONEYMOONER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Ernest Dyal, a turpentine operator and a substantial business man of Hazlehurst, county seat of Jeff Davis County, in the pine timber section of Southern Georgia, married in the summer of 1927 and took his bride on a motor honeymoon trip to one of the Georgia coast resorts near Brunswick.

On their way home, on August 23, 1927, they were driving through Wayne County in the vicinity of Jesup when County Policeman W. B. Aycock stopped their car and undertook to search it on his mere suspicion that it might contain liquor.

Sherod Poppell, clerk of Superior Court of Wayne County, on July 19, 1929, in a report to the Washington Herald, described what transpired thus:

"Ernest Dyal and his wife were passing through the county in an automobile on their way home from the seashore, and Aycock seemed to think they had liquor and attempted, so he claims, to search the car, and apparently without any reason shot and killed Dyal. Aycock now serving a sentence of 12 to 15 years."

3 STRIKERS HELD FOR INJUNCTION VIOLATION

Companies in First Attempt To Operate Machines Outside Downtown Area

Taxicab service was extended from the downtown district today to various suburbs under the protection of 75 deputy sheriffs, all of the city's mounted police, a majority of the motorcycle squad and scores of patrolmen, all instructed to prevent such outbreaks as yesterday's.

While the cabs were cruising about the city, three strikers arrested in yesterday's riots were held for court in Central Police Court on charges of violating the court's injunction against interference with operation of the cabs.

They were E. W. Thompson, of Hiural Valley; James Powell, of Shady avenue, and Morris Fromme, of Wylie avenue. Fromme immediately filed a habeas corpus petition in Common Pleas Court to obtain tempovary freedom, but Judge Ambrose B. Reid refused to grant a hearing before Monday.

This was the first time since the 1,400 drivers went on strike for more pay and recognition of their union two weeks ago that the Yellow and Green companies have attempted to give city-wide service.

OPERATE IN PAIRS

With imported drivers the cabs were operated in pairs, a deputy sheriff in each cab. Yesterday the cabs were operated only between the hotels and railroad stations.

There was little, if any, violence early today. Joseph Kurtz, 25, was arrested in Grant street, scene of yesterday's trouble, when police accused him of interfering with a newspaper photographer whose camera was smashed. Joseph Krozwovich, 25, was taken in Tenth street, when police reported that he was carrying a club which the police felt might have been for throwing purposes.

Three strikers stabbed in the first outbreak yesterday were still in serious condition today in Mercy Hosital. The majority of the dozen or more other newly hired drivers, strikers and strike

ARREST WOMAN IN POOL DRIVE

County detectives, acting on complaints, raided three alleged lottery headquarters in the city today and arrested one woman and two men.

"Yes, We Write," printed in large letters on a cardboard greeted the sleuths as they entered a confectionery store at 110 Hemlock street, North Side, they reported. They arrested Mrs. Margaret Porley and confiscated an adding machine and clearing house lottery books.

Other squads raided 515 and 607 Wylie avenue, arresting Henry Smith and Ernest Epps, Negroes. Two adding machines and lottery equipment were seized.

The three defendants were arraigned before Alderman George J. Anderson, charged with keeping a gambling house.

Will Rogers Meets G. B. S.; They Spoof Arms Parley

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Details of a private naval conference between two kings of wit—George Bernard Shaw and Will Rogers—were revealed here today.

The famous pair met in Shaw's apartment here, and both talked for an hour in humorous and satirical vein on the progress of the disarmament conference.

"It isn't a disarmament conference," said Shaw. "It is an armament conference. They are just arguing whether it will be better to kill people with 12 or 15-inch guns."

"Yes," answered Rogers, "it's all abou battleships, and how does that affect one? Very few folks can point to an ancestor who was killed by a battleship."

Before his arrival, Shaw had been told his visitor was a Cherokee Indian by extraction.

"I expected you to come decked out in feathers and war paint," he told the comedian.

Episcopal Primate Still Critically Ill

The bishop, recovering from a sinking period late in the day, rested in an "unchanged condition" throughout the night. Dr. James B. Herrick, his physician, said the longer this continued, the more chance there would be for recovery.

The primate, who is 67, and bishop of Chicago, was stricken with a heart attack Wednesday and again Thursday.

WHALE SHIPS HELD READY FOR RESCUE

Oslo Officials, However, Believe Pack Will Break And Free American Party

International News Service.

OSLO, Jan. 25. — Directors of the principal whaling companies operating in the Antarctic were pledged today to do everything in their power to prevent Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd from being marooned by pack ice at his explorational Little America.

The belief was expressed, however, that there was little danger of Byrd and his crew being hopelessly hemmed in by ice until March at the earliest, as reports from whaling vessels in the vicinity indicate that the ice is not in as bad shape as had been first reported.

The American government's appeal for Norwegian aid in getting Rear Admiral Byrd out of the Antarctic has been sent to Chairman Rasmussen, of the Norway Corporation of Whaling companies at Sanedford.

While all have promised to cooperate to the fullest extent, whaling officials were unanimous in the belief that the pack ice would break up in plenty of time to permit Byrd's own boats to get through into the Ross Sea.

A full conference was expected to take place among whaling officials today, at which time it will be decided what instructions to send to their various vessels in the Antarctic. It is likely that word will be sent out for all whaling captins to be prepared to go to the immediate aid of Rear Admiral Byrd if this is found to be necessary.

On behalf of the Norwegian government, it was said that a vessel would be dispatched to Little America immediately if word was received that Byrd's supplies were running low.

CLIMAX AWAITED

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—The climax in the dramatic battle between time and ice centering around Admiral Richard [illegible] and his Antarctic expedi- will come within the next [illegible] weeks, Dr. Isaiah Bowman, [illegible] or of the American Geo- [illegible]ical Society, declared today, [illegible] is waiting a chance to come [illegible] out of Antarctica before the Ross Sea ice pack imprisons his expedition for another year in walls of frozen sea water.

The outcome cannot be predicted and the world must wait until the latter part of February for the climax, Dr. Bowman said.

"February is really the open month and we shall not know until then whether or not the ice pack will behave as it has in other years," Bowman said.

While reports from Little America indicate that the pack is clinging together in greater masses than usual, Dr. Bowman stated this did not mean it would not break up.

A meeting of striking taxicab drivers was scheduled this afternoon. Representatives of the strikers and the companies involved were silent on their plans for the future. Each indicated that any move toward settling the tieup would have to come from the other. Until the meeting, both sides were awaiting the next movement in the strike which has had transportation tied up since January 12.

MORE DEPUTIES SWORN

Sheriff Robert S. Cain late yesterday announced that 75 extra deputies would be on hand today to assist in keeping order. The announcement followed a conference with police heads and cab company officials.

Miss M. Emmilinne Pitt, conciliator for the United States Department of Labor, is the only "peacemaker" left in the strike. She said yesterday that, although the situation "looks unfavorable for a settlement, there is hope that some sort of an amicable agreement can be made."

Miss Pitt said that her instructions from the Department of Labor are to exert every effort to bring about peace.

POLICIES GIVEN MRS. O'BRIEN

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. — (INS.) — Life insurance policies amounting to $6,100 for which the state charged William J. O'Brien was slain in a love plot, will be cashed in by his widow, Genevieve, who was acquitted for participation in the killing by a jury Thursday night.

The state used the policies as evidence in the trial of Samuel Howard Dorr, alleged sweetheart of Mrs. O'Brien, who was convicted of O'Brien's murder.

State's Attorney's prosecutors will turn over the policies to the widow, an expectant mother, some time today, it was announced.

Greensburg Robbery Victim Accuses Irene

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 25.—From photos in newspapers, Lewis L. Osterwise, proprietor of a chain store which was held up and robbed by a man and a woman here last October 28, has identified Irene Schroeder, arrested in connection with the murder of Highway Patrolman Brady Paul, near New Castle, and her companion, Glenn Dague, as the two who staged the local holdup.

Osterwise claims the blonde "trigger woman" was the apparent "brains" of the local robbery, ordering him to open the cash register and then superintending the binding of the merchant, which was done by Dague.

Harriman Scores Liquor Law in Jury Quiz

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—John Harriman, wealthy clubman and social registerite, startled federal officials when he emphatically denounced the prohibition laws while being examined for jury duty.

Harriman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman and nephew of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, was asked the usual question by Federal Judge William Bondy:

"Have you any prejudice against enforcement of the national prohibition act?"

"No matter what the evidence or how strong it was I I would not vote to convict a man of violating the prohibition laws," Harriman replied.

Former St. Vincent Music Head Dies

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The Rev. Valerian Winter, 51, assistant pastor of St. Joseph Church here, died suddenly last night in the church rectory. Physicians attributed death to heart disease.

Father Valerian was born in Erie and ordained in 1903 at St. Vincent's, Latrobe. For 15 years he was in charge of the department of music at St. Vincent's College. Later he served in religious work at Baltimore and at Crabtree, Pa., before coming here six years ago.

PITTSBURGHERS URGED TO AID CANAL PLAN

Backer Asked to Attend Capital Hearing Feb. 4; Last Chance to Give Data

In a communication sent business leaders and professional men of the Pittsburgh district last night Albert J. Stowe, manager of the commerce division of the Chamber of Commerce, urged their attendance at the hearing on the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal in Washington February 4.

"An adverse report to Congress will occasion inestimable harm for the entire Pittsburgh district," stated Stowe. "The forthcoming hearing which Pittsburghers and all those interested in the project should attend, affords the only opportunity through presentation of additional data to win adoption of the project from the economic standpoint."

The action of the chamber yesterday is a reiteration of its stand taken on the proposal to build a waterway from the Ohio River to Lake Erie, at Ashtabula Harbor, O., made more than 30 years ago. Since that time Pennsylvania has expended $250,000 for investigations, surveys and maps and Pittsburgh alone has contributed more than $60,000 to determine the feasibility of the canal. The engineers of the Army have conceded the canal is practical.

The canal projected would be 127 miles long, starting at the Ohio River and reaching the lake via the Beaver River and the Mahoning River to Niles, O., thence north to Lake Erie. The cost of the waterway, which would consist almost equally of canalized rivers and an artificial canal, would be $100,000,000. It would relieve the situation of discriminatory rates which has been the burden of Pittsburgh industries for 40 years, backers say.

HOOVER PLAN ABANDONED BY DRYS

Prohibition Leaders of Capitol Join Antis in Attack on Transfer

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—A determined effort by congressional drys to modify President Hoover's prohibition program appeared under way on Capitol Hill today in addition to the anti-prohibition attacks on the proposed campaign for drying up America.

The drys seemed intent on changing the President's recommendations both for transferring the Prohibition Bureau of the Department of Justice and for conferring police magistrate powers on United States commissioners. Some dry leaders wanted the first measure amended to include the industrial alcohol section while others protested the latter bill was unconstitutional.

CANNON IN SPOTLIGHT

The prohibition spotlight meanwhile shifted from Capitol Hill to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., chairman of the Board of Temperance of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. On the eve of a trip to Europe, Bishop Cannon issued a vigorous statement attacking nullificationists, denouncing Roman Catholic opposition to prohibition and appealing to Congress to enact legislation and provide men and money to put down "this twentieth century whisky rebellion."

The Bishop James two in his charges against Roman Catholics. He cited Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston; Archbishop Curley, of Baltimore; the Vatican organ, "Osservatore Romano," and Dr. John A. Ryan, director of the Catholic National Welfare Organization, as leading the attack on prohibition.

He said this "openly declared hostility to the prohibition law by Roman Catholic leaders and news papers should not be ignored or minimized."

He added that in "any accurate estimate of the present situation, there is no more important factor" than the attitude of such Roman Catholic leaders.

Parting shots at Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, New York educator, and Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York City, were included in the bishop's statement. He criticized both for opposition to prohibition.

STORE DAMAGED

According to Chief Kenyon, the fire originated in the rear of the Strathern Hardware Company quarters on the first floor. It spread to the storeroom of the Lilly and George Furniture Company and to the drug store of John Garfolo. Chief Kenyon said the fire had been started by spontaneous combustion.

Chief Kenyon placed the loss as follows: To the hardware company, $20,000; the furniture company, $5,000, and to the building itself, owned by Valley Lodge No. 613, F. & A. M., of Turtle Creek, $10,000. Garfolo's store suffered slight smoke damage.

A lunch which the Amaranth woman had prepared for their guests was turned over to the firemen.

Shortly after returning to their fire station, the firemen had a second run. An unidentified person had sounded a false alarm in Shaw avenue.

YOUTH AND GIRL HURT IN CRASH

A youth and a girl were injured, the man seriously, in an automobile collision in East Ohio street, North Side, in which three machines figured early today. The injured are C. W. Nott, 19, of 2619 Brighton road, and Helen Travis, 21, of 1227 Hodgkiss street. Both are in the Presbyterian Hospital, where Nott is said to be suffering a possible fracture of the skull. Miss Travis was cut and bruised.

According to police, the automobile of R. J. Stressly, 31, of 621 Presaly street, collided with the automobile of W. H. Ross, of 1514 Chateau street, and then struck Nott's car. The three machines were damaged. Police arrested Stressly on a charge of reckless driving.

Chicago Bombings Drop From 116 To 115 in Year

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Chicago's 1929 "pineapple crop" was not quite as large as in 1928 as far as quantity goes, but it more than made that up in quality.

The Employers' Association announced that the total number of bombings last year was 115, one less than the previous year, and averaging slightly less than a bomb every three days. But last year, the association pointed out, the average damage was $1,713 per bomb, compared with the 1928 average of $960.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area that was centered over the lower Mississippi valley remained stationary, but diminished somewhat in pressure, while the pressure increased over the northern plains and the upper Mississippi valley. The low pressure area that was centered north of the lakes is now centered over Eastern Ontario, and the plateau high has almost disappeared. The change in pressure caused a rise in temperature over the East and South, and a decided fall over the northern plains, the upper Mississippi valley and Manitoba. The precipitation was light and was confined to light snow over the lake region and upper Mississippi valley.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 2.2 feet. Lock No. 7, 11.2; Pittsburgh, 13.4; Dam No. 4, 9.7; Dam No. 5, 7.3; Dam No. 6, 8.7; Dam No. 12, 5.4. The dams are up. Ice is forming everywhere, and the rivers are either frozen over or ice running.

Taxicabs Operated, Riot Stories Exaggerations

By JOHN P. COWAN.

Greatly exaggerated reports of what were termed "riots" in the vicinity of Pennsylvania station were circulated yesterday. Crowds gathered when a few trouble-making taxicab strike sympathizers jeered the operators of cabs and hurled perhaps a dozen bricks and other missiles at passing cabs. It was hardly a "hail of bricks."

The crowd was made up not of "500 strikers and sympathizers," as was reported, but largely of curious who were handled easily by the squads of policemen assigned to the station in anticipation of trouble. No riot calls were necessary.

The Yellow Cab Company in the mid-afternoon began the operation of cabs between the Pennsylvania Station, the William Penn Hotel and the cab garage in Ross street. The cabs departed from the area way at the station in caravans of twos and threes, each machine guarded by a sedan or touring car filled with special deputy sheriffs.

The appearance of the cabs operated by strike-breakers caused crowds to collect along the sidewalks in Grant street and a group of men, believed by the police to be strike sympathizers, edged into the parking lot on the west side of Grant street, at Seventh avenue. Special policemen and mounted officers kept the crowds moving. As the cabs approached running both to and from the station, the crowds surged after them for a few yards.

The crowd was composed largely of curious spectators and "innocent bystanders," with more than half the number composed of ordinary pedestrians and persons waiting for street cars and buses.

Three cabs started from the station with their escorts of guard cars. Shortly after turning out from the station, pieces of concrete were thrown from the parking lot. The cabs halted in the traffic, and more concrete was thrown. A few people shouted, and the bystanders scurried away to avoid being hit. Only a few missiles were thrown, but the marksmanship was poor.

A few minutes later another caravan of cabs started, the crowd surged forward again, and there was some shouting, but no missiles were thrown.

The crowd for the most part was good natured, and the only grim faces were those of the taxi drivers and their guards. At no time did the number of persons in the Grant street block exceed 500, and nearly all were pedestrians who had no interest in the strike beyond idle curiosity, according to the police.

Taxicabs Gone, Pitt Dance Beaux to Use Bus

Members of the University of Pittsburgh Faculty Club have solved the transportation problem which threatened to ruin a dinner dance they will hold tonight at the club.

Unable to get taxicabs, they have chartered a bus. It will first stop at the club early in the evening and a score or so of members will board it. A general tour of the city will then be made with a stop in front of the home of each girl friend. When all the ladies have taken seats reserved for them, the bus will head toward the club and the dance.

After the dance the bus will retrace its route, stopping long enough for each bachelor to bow his lady into her home and bid her "Goodnight."

INQUIRY BEGUN IN VOTE CASES

Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park and County Detective David Drexler today were conducting an investigation into the report of Attorney Ward Bonsall, chairman of the special recount board for the primaries, in which several election boards are charged with fraud. District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner announced yesterday that his assistant and the sleuth had been directed to investigate the report.

Gardner stated that at present he is investigating only the 18 boards which Bonsall's report accused of irregularities. He said that if the allegations of fraud proved true he would prosecute the boards involved. The investigation is confined at present to the return sheets of the 18 boards.

Bonsall was chairman of the special recount board which the court appointed to go over the ballots of the primary election last September.

WRITS SERVED IN GLASSPORT

Glassport borough councilmen and all members of the police department yesterday were served writs summoning them to court February 4. They are summoned on writ of mandamus granted Burgess Seward J. Gross to show cause why the latter should not be granted access to the borough police station.

Council earlier in the month threw out the entire police force and named new men. The burgess suspended the new men and reappointed some of the old men.

The struggle for supremacy is alleged to be a war between political factions, one headed by County Detective James O'Brien, president of council, and the other by Burgess Gross.

Attorney Denied Permit To See Blonde Suspect In New Castle Jail

family. He presented letters from Irene's relatives, bearing out the statement, but Sheriff Johnson was obdurate, and said neither Powell nor anybody else would be allowed to see the prisoner until the preliminary hearing is held—which probably will be next Tuesday night.

Powell then went to Judge D. Lawrence Hildebrand, presiding judge of Lawrence county, to seek permission to see Irene. He represented that he was Irene's counsel, engaged by her family—and that they had the right to choose a lawyer for her, since she was a minor, being 20 years old. But Judge Hildebrand refused to grant the order requested.

CROWDS AT JAIL

"What's going on?" Donnie inquired last night as his mother was being taken into jail.

He could not see his mother in the crowd of spectators that jammed around the courthouse to get a glimpse of the man and woman who, by their flight across the continent and defiant stand against an armed posse in the Arizona desert, have attracted nationwide attention.

CROWDS AT STATION

Crowds gathered at almost every station along the railroad from Cleveland to New Castle. At Warren, O., the crowds swarmed about the train on both sides, pushing and shoving for vantage points along the tracks as the train passed by.

At Youngstown again the crowds overran the station. Niles, O., turned out en masse and it was necessary to make last-minute changes in plans for unloading the prisoners for their last dash to the county jail. Originally it was planned to disembark at New Castle junction, but the crowds jammed around the old station building in such numbers that officials advised County Detective Peck Lee and Lieut. Thomas M. Boettner who were in charge of the prisoners, that it would be best to leave the train at Mahoningtown.

DASH FOR AUTOS

Irene was handcuffed to Lieut. Boettner and Dague to Detective Lee. They were forced to run through the drifting snow around the seldom-used station to waiting automobiles while railroad policemen, Lawrence County deputies and New Castle officers held the crowds back.

"I hopped through there like a jack-rabbit!" was Irene's grinning comment as she was lifted into the waiting machine. Dressed in the blue silk dress which somebody sent to her anonymously in the Maricopa County jail at Phoenix, she wore the same black coat and hat she is said to have worn the day Corp. Paul was slain.

Dague has not fared nearly so well in the matter of wearing apparel. His suit is worn and ragged with jagged tears from the Arizona desert waste. His cap, pulled well down over his face and coat collar turned up gave him a rather dejected appearance as he jogged along beside the stalwart officers.

IN "MURDEDERS' ROW"

They were placed in separate cells. Dague found himself in "murderers' row" on the first floor while another cell on the second floor had been fitted up for Irene.

The last stage of the trip—from Cleveland to New Castle—was one filled with "honeys" and "dearies" for Irene and Glenn, who have spent most of their time in ardent love-making since the start of their trip back East.

"How do you feel, honey?" inquired Dague solicitously as they made ready to disembark.

"I'm fine," replied Irene. "Are you sure you won't be cold, dearie, without an overcoat?"

The rest was lost in the noise of spectators who milled around the car for a glimpse of the pair.

Attorney K. H. Powell, of Youngstown, O., boarded the train at that place with a request to see the couple. He told authorities he had been retained for Irene by Mrs. Minnie Baum, a sister. Associated with him, he said, were W. T. Barnum and V. Stevens, both of Youngstown. He was not permitted to interview the prisoners, either on the train or at the jail. Authorities said they would be permitted to see no one until sometime today.

In the jail they are in the custody of Sheriff Frank M. Johnston, who was a member of the party of officers who went to Arizona to bring the prisoners back.

FOX RECEIVER ASKED IN WEST

SEATTLE, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A receiver for the Pacific Northwest Theaters, Inc., operators of Fox moving picture houses in several Pacific Coast cities, was sought in Superior Court here today by the C. S. Jensen Investment Company, of Portland, and Mrs. Mary G. von Herberg, of Seattle. The West Coast Theaters, Inc., was named co-defendant. Theaters in Washington, Oregon and Montana are involved in the proceedings.

The plaintiffs, who claim to hold 2,500 shares, or the entire issue of the Pacific Northwest Theaters, Inc., 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, contend they were being deprived of dividends because of alleged mismanagement, excessive salaries and overhead assessed against the corporation.

Attorneys for the defendants characterized the suit as "spite work" and an effort to "hurt the Fox enterprises."

EAKER'S WIFE GETS DIVORCE

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. Leah Eaker obtained a divorce here last Wednesday from Capt. Ira C. Eaker, chief pilot of the Army endurance plane "Question Mark."

District Attorney William E Orr awarded Mrs. Eaker $150 a month alimony, but maintained jurisdiction over the stipend which allows Capt. Eaker to contest it at later date if he desires.

Captain Eaker did not contest the divorce action and his attorney could not say, pending word from the captain, who lives in New York, whether he would contest the alimony award.

Mrs. Eaker's complaint charged that her husband's attitude toward her was imperious, and as a result of his treatment, she lost 35 pounds and weighed only 95 pounds at the time of their separation last October 15.

The couple was married in 1923 when she was 19 and he was 27 years old, at Long Island, New York.

RITES HELD FOR MRS. BRYAN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Her earthly journey at its end, the ashes of Mrs. Mary Baird Bryan today awaited removal at an early date to Washington, D. C., where they will rest in Arlington National Cemetery beside the body of William Jennings Bryan, her husband.

In a private funeral service yesterday relatives and friends assembled in the Little Church of the Flowers in Glendale and heard the words of the late Commoner's essay, "Immortality," from the "Prince of Peace." They were read as a benediction over the body of his beloved wife. Her husband's belief, expressed in a passage from the essay—"I am as sure that we shall meet again as I am that we live today"—brought comfort to her in life, and it was her request that the passage be read at her funeral.

Dr. James Hamilton Lash, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Hollywood, read the essay and delivered a brief eulogy.

LOAN TO EASE CHICAGO CRISIS

The outstanding development was the announcement by Silar H. Strawn, chairman of the Citizens' Relief Committee, that a $50,000,000 pool had been pledged by business, industrial and railroad interests to lend money on tax anticipation warrants.

However, the announcement was accompanied by an ultimatum that no loans would be made until the public officials agreed to cooperate in cutting all possible expenses.

In the meantime, the city's twice-vetoed budget of $55,314,947 became effective—Mayor William Hale Thompson failing to veto it before yesterday's council session.

Yesterday was another pay day for 13,200 teachers—but Board of Education officials today were still seeking money to meet the payroll.

The county board voted to pay back salaries of 4,000 employes in tax anticipation warrants of small denominations—to be cashed at neighborhood stores and banks.

Added to the crisis was the announcement from trustees of the Chicago sanitary district, that it must sell more than $500,000 worth of anticipation warrants or default bond interest due February 1.

Mrs. Felton, Only Woman U. S. Senator, Dies at 94

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton, the only woman to hold the office of United States senator, died here last midnight after a brief illness. She was 94 years old.

Less than two months before her death, Mrs. Felton made her first flight in an airship and on landing was enthusiastic about air travel.

Her interest in politics was keen in her last years and during the presidential campaign in 1928 she was an ardent supporter of Gov. Smith, of New York.

In a letter to former Gov Hardwick, then actively campaigning for the Democratic candidates, she wrote:

"I was a pioneer in temperance work in this state (Georgia) and joined the W. C. T. U. 40 years ago.

"When I enlisted in the organization it was non-political. I am grieved to know that some Georgia women are now dragging a clean white and much honored organization in the mire and filth of dirty politics in a mud slinging campaign."

She urged Democrats to remain true to their teachings and support the party.

She was a friend to everybody who came to her door and once remarked:

"I love all folks worth loving in the world, and those who are not never cross my path."

Four More Jobs 'Exempted' By Civil Service Board

The Civil Service Commission has removed four jobs from its protection and placed them in the "exempt" class where the incumbents may be discharged without cause.

Jobs and salaries are: Superintendent of the bureau of bridges and structures, $3,600, and three investigators in the law department at $2,750, $2,250 and $1,800 each.

Last Friday, the commission posted a notice on its bulletin board stating all positions of division engineer, bureau superintendent, chief clerk, assistant chief clerk and investigator of the law department had been placed in the "exempt" class and set yesterday for a hearing.

No sponsors or objectors to the change appeared at the hearing although it was said the commission had received a letter from the Civic Club of Allegheny county protesting against the proposed change.

Dr. F. H. Frederick, president of the commission, declared all the jobs excepting the four listed above were now in the "exempt" class.

Dr. Frederick announced that 1,500 applicants for policemen and firemen jobs would be given a physical examination beginning January 28. Mental tests will follow. Applications for policemen and firemen jobs will be received after February 15, Dr. Frederick said.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Heartless

Salesman Steals Money From Old Woman, But Later Amends Act

JOE BLAKELEY has secured only about half the order from the Grimes General Clothing and Dry Goods Emporium that he had expected.

Joe was considerably disgusted as he made his way back to the Palm Springs House for dinner. This selling dry goods on the road wasn't so hot.

Too hard work, if anyone asked him. Now, a nice little poultry farm just about suited Joe; take a place with a cottage, a stream of water running through so the poultry would always have fresh water without his hauling it, and what was there to do?

Feed them once a day. This, with big runs, in that warm climate, and that was all there was to it. A depot-wagon style car to take the eggs to the warehouse, and the rest of the time for idleness, sitting around, fishing, taking it easy.

That was the life—and he could get just the poultry ranch he wanted down in the next county for $5,000.

Joe lacked $4,500 of that amount, hence his disgust with everything in general. Never would save up the necessary—at least not for a number of years, and Joe wanted his poultry ranch and his easy time of it right then.

There was a watering trough in the main street and a drinking fountain. Joe stopped for a drink.

An elderly lady came out of the bank. A man followed and on the sidewalk he spoke to her.

"Why didn't you take that $5,000 in a check, Aunt Martha?" he asked.

"Oh, no—I wanted it in cash, Mr. Swain."

"Shouldn't keep that much in your house over night."

"I'm not afraid. Who'd mistrust me of having money in my house?"

"Yes, I suppose so," the man agreed.

Slowly it dawned on Joe that "five thousand" had been mentioned. That was the amount he wanted. He turned around.

Only a man stood on the corner. The woman who had five thousand cash evidently turned down the street. Only three houses away a little old woman was passing through a gate. He couldn't see her face. She unlocked a side door and entered the rather rundown cottage.

Not a Crook

Joe sauntered down past the place and looked it over.

There had been a great many times when Joe wasn't exactly honest. He didn't consider himself a crook, exactly, but his motto had always been "Me first—look out for No. 1."

Gosh—with that five thousand cash he could slip down into Avacado County, buy that poultry ranch, and be set for life!

He didn't dare pass the house again; it would look too suspicious. So he made his way around to the Palm Spring House and had dinner.

Etta Nixon waited on his table. He had known Etta for a couple of years, ever since he had been coming to Palm Springs to sell dry goods. They had been good pals at first, and then there had been a love affair, of sorts—that is, it was just another love affair to Joe. To Etta it was everything in the world.

Etta flushed a little as Joe sat down.

"What's got the least indigestion in it, Etta?" Joe asked.

"The roast lamb is good, Joe," she said.

He nodded and looked around the room. One country hotel dining room was like another, fly-specked and dismal. He'd be through living around at hotels if he had any luck at all this night.

When Etta brought the roast lamb she leaned over as if to arrange the thick nappies of stewed corn and string beans.

"See me tonight at the creek bridge, won't you, Joe?" she whispered.

Joe looked up. He was going to shake his head, but changed his mind. Etta looked so frightened. Why not see her once more, give her some good advice and forget it—he'd never be back in Palm Springs again, anyway.

"All right—sure—after th' movies. Wanna go to th' movies tonight? They got a swell comedy there."

Etta looked at him. He was afraid she was going to cry right there.

"Comedy!" she said.

"Everybody will have to get wise pretty soon—"

Etta moved away. Mrs. Burgess, wife of the hotel owner, had come in. The two waitresses were not supposed to hold converse with the guests other than to mention the daily menu.

Out of force of habit Joe visited the other two dry goods stores in the town that afternoon. His sales were nothing to cheer about, but Joe didn't mind. He'd be through fiddling around like this for commissions that didn't always cover his drawing account.

Dinner in Palm Springs was at noon.

"Don't fail me, Joe, for God's sake," she whispered, as she stooped to pick up a napkin she had purposely dropped.

"Be there after th' show, with bells on," he promised, cutting into a slice of the ham.

Good idea to kill time. He couldn't get over to the little old lady's house until after midnight. Being down to the creek bridge with Etta would be a good alibi if he was suspected. She would lie for him. She'd have to, and say he was with her there.

Dinner Served

So Joe grinned at the comedy on the screen and then sauntered down to the creek bridge.

Etta was there, sitting on the bank in the shadow of some chinaquapin bushes.

"Well, well, here we are," said Joe, sitting down beside her.

"Joe—if—if the water was deep enough in there I'd be at th' bottom now," Etta whispered.

"How you talk," said Joe, trying to speak lightly. It sure was tough on the girl, he thought, but what the heck?

"There's only one reason why you won't marry me," she said, in a dull voice.

"Couldn't support you. Can't support myself hardly," he told her, hastily.

"Yes, you could, and I could help after—" she choked back a sob. "It's because you are heartless, Joe."

"Can't help it. Be sensible—things like this happen—I never said I'd ever marry you, did I?"

"But if you weren't heartless you would—I trusted you. I'd just come from home to work because they couldn't afford to support me there and you was my first sweetheart."

Joe didn't doubt her, but it irked him. He had much rather kill time some other way.

"Everything will be all right," he said, vaguely.

"How can it be all right—with me like this—Oh, Joe, won't you change your mind? Don't be so heartless."

"Mighty sorry, Etta, but it just can't be done. If I could afford it," he lied, and he thought of his saved up $500, "but I can raise $100 or so for you," he added.

"If you can raise that much we could be all right—this deserted Jackson place down here would make a good home—we could keep chickens and have a garden and you could work—I'd be self-supporting with this place, you could rent it for $100 a year I know—please, Joe, don't be so heartless."

Joe looked at the cabin in the moonlight and chuckled to himself. He was comparing it with the $5,000 chicken ranch down in Avacado County that, with luck, would be his in another day or so.

"I'll see about raising you $100," he said, and walked away and left her there with the mental torture many another girl has known.

It was 2 in the morning when Joe Blakeley slipped the old-fashioned catch to a low pantry window of the little cottage on Sycamore street. Entrance was easy. He softly opened the side door. That was for a quick exit and denoted some previous experience in this line.

He found the old lady's room all right, on the ground floor. That was good. No creaking stairs to worry him.

She Was Old

She was on the far side of the big bed. She didn't stir. Where she would be likely to hide five thousand he couldn't guess.

Women hid money in such fool places.

He shielded his little pocket flash and looked on the antiquated marble-topped bureau. He opened a drawer. The old woman stirred and he crouched. Silence. He moved aside her bonnet.

He had intended getting out the next day. Now he would wait over another day so as not to arouse suspicion.

Etta scarcely looked at him as she served him his meals at the hotel.

Finally he was on the train. He had won! He'd buy the poultry ranch and be independent for life.

He asked the woman ahead if he might raise the window. She murmured something. He saw that she was old, and sobbing. He asked her if she were sick.

Then she told him that someone had stolen all her money. She was going to pay for herself and her aged sister in a beautiful home for old ladies—now both had to go to the poorhouse—it had been her husband's insurance money.

Joe Blakeley looked at her. Queer, she had hair just like his old woman had, and her lips trembled just like his mother's lips had when his dad was killed in an explosion. Tough as heck, them poorhouses.

"Look here, lady," he said, "I've been looking for you. I am a detective. I caught the man who robbed you. He got away, but I had your money that I took from him—here it is."

He thrust the money in her hand.

"Think I see the robber now, out there," he said, and he ran down the aisle and swung off the train as it was making an up grade.

He had supper at the Palm Springs House that night.

"Meet me outside soon's you can," he said to Etta.

"And I said you were heartless," gasped Etta.

"Sure, I'm heartless as heck," Joe declared.

"You aren't—Joe—you are wonderful."

By FAY KING

They rush here and there, hardly knowing who their hosts are, and are calling each other by their first names and petting before they are properly introduced.

With automobiles to whisk them away from all interference and bootleg booze to make them less responsible, it is a wonder more tragedy does not occur.

But many have learned to their lasting sorrow that these easy-to-get pals are not so easy to get rid of.

Girls who are so broadminded about unconventional friendships often are not so broadminded about breaking such friendships.

Many a "sweetie" has put up a more bitter battle than a wife when it came to breaking off relations.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Takes Hand in Muddle of 'Royal Romancers'

THERE was triumphant malice in Princess Olina's cry that she recognized Mary as the masked dancer in the night club. But the next instant the better instincts of the girl beat back her meaner impulses, and she ran toward Mary, who, seemingly unperturbed by the startling little cry, was finishing her dance.

"Oh! Mary, I'm sorry! I didn't intend to say that," she pleaded, truthfully, I would have staked much. "But you took me so by surprise that I couldn't help crying out. There is the most marvelous resemblance between you and that girl. But, of course, you couldn't have been she."

That she had no belief in what she was saying the veriest tyro could see, but that she was trying to make herself and the rest believe it was also plain. But Mary shook her head, smiling, as she finished her dance, and swept the silken mask from her eyes.

"It's no good, Olina," she said, "although you're a good scout to try to let me down easy. But you happen to have hit upon the truth. I was a masked dancer at a night club, in fact The Masked Dancer—caps, if you please, when referring to what I did to little old N' Yawk for awhile. But that you should recognize me—oh! yes, I do remember now you told me once you had seen that girl and that I resembled her I would better have remembered it a few minutes ago before I staged this little stunt to prove to you that I wasn't such an amateur as you have thought me. But my hindsight always was far better than the other brand. So now, the awful secret of my life is bared, and you hold me in the hollow of your hand! Lights! Slow curtain!"

She flung her hand out in pretty mimicry of an old-time stage director, then pirouetted around an easy chair and flung herself into it, directly opposite the three stricken faces searching hers. Noel's held grave disapproval. Olina's the chagrin of a high-minded girl upon having yielded to the temptation to indulge in cheap malice, but the face of Prince Georges seemed frozen, so immoble was it, so deeply graven the lines upon it.

But I mentally saluted Mary. She had thrown her all into her scheme to cure Prince Georges of his infatuation for her. I was sure that she was perfectly aware Olina would recognize her, and that she had staged the dance and put on the little mask for that very purpose. But if Philip Veritzen were to learn of her flaunting of the secret he thought safe, her chance of stardom under his auspices would be forever gone, even if he should be reconciled to the collapse of his scheme to marry his son to Princess Olina.

Prince Georges was the first to speak slowly, as if his throat muscles were stiffened.

"Did not I understand, sir," he said formally to Noel, "that you formerly were a violinist at a night club. Was it——"

Noel's muscles tensed at the other's tone, and he stepped a pace forward. But I had known at that "sir" from Prince Georges' lips that it was time some older and cooler person took charge of the tangled situation. I was the only older person in the room, although I did not believe anyone but Mary had known that I was in my secluded corner, almost hidden by the sweeping window draperies, and resolutely, though with lively misgivings, I had emerged from my corner while Prince Georges was speaking, and laid my hand restrainingly upon Noel's arm as he lunged forward in resentment of the other's tone.

"Boys!" I sharply admonished, purposely using the incongruous word in addressing the young men facing each other so tensely: "This little farce has gone far enough! Mary! I am ashamed of you. Now I want all of you to sit down while I tell you the truth concerning this."

I kept my hand upon Noel's arm, and for a second which seemed endless there was the silence which was heavy with uncertainty. I had taken the tone of a schoolmistress with unruly children, but the four young people looking at me were men and women and I feared for the success of my ruse.

"I shall be very glad to listen to you," he said formally, and held chairs for Mary and Princess Olina with as much impressment as if he were seating them at a banquet. The slur which Prince Georges had let slip in his bewildered anger had roused a frenzy in Noel which was almost murderous, and I knew that it must be exercised before either youth left the room.

Horoscopes

Sunday, January 26

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds presage of predominant spiritual, cultural and social activities, with much advantage and satisfaction to be attained in these avocations or pursuits. The mind will be high pitched and lean toward original thinking and advanced speculation in mystical, scientific or psychological subjects.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of new ventures and original exploits into untried fields of thought and solid investigation, which may lead into substantial business projects or into worthwhile undertakings in art, science, invention or exploration. Eventful and colorful developments should mark the year in many avenues of application or initiative.

A child born on this day should be particularly original and enterprising in thought and action. This quality may lead into fields of science, art, or invention, but is bound to create an adventurous and colorful career.

Monday, January 27

MONDAY'S astrological chart holds aspects of frustration and adversity, despite some favorable prospects. While there may be a stirring up of affairs fundamentally, with some obstacles removed and the ambitions may be keyed up, yet there is hint of some further obstructing and postponing forces. There may be an unwelcome change suddenly precipitated, and there are other signs of malefic opposition to the highest endeavor, but perseverance and aggressive application and industry may save the day and overcome indicated hostility.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which stubborn persistency and dogged industry and application may defeat tenacious obstacles and malignant opposition. With patience and diligence there are excellent auguries for success and worthwhile progress. Make changes cautiously.

A child born on this day may have many contradictory forces and obstacles to surmount, but at the same time it may be splendidly equipped for victory.

Saves Linoleum

A goood preservative for linoleum can be made by mixing one gill of methylated spirit and one ounce of shellac. Let the latter dissolve thoroughly, then apply to the linoleum with a soft flannel.

LOVEJOY

:: By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XVI.

"YOU look messy. And the paint on your mouth has slipped," Tom said with the brutal frankness of a husband.

He picked up his coffee from the tray that Norrie had set on the table beside his bed. But while he did it, he kept his narrowed eyes on Lovejoy's face.

"Late hours and liquor and lipstick don't improve your looks the least bit, my girl," he added flatly.

Lovejoy, glaring at him, crawled back into her own bed with her coffee cup in her hand.

"Thanks for the coffee, Norrie," she said to Norrie Shane in a voice that had an edge like a sharp knife. "Shut the door when you go out, won't you?"

Lovejoy's eyes followed her.

Of course, Norrie did look awfully neat and clean in that crackling white uniform of hers. She had the shining, spotless look that any well-groomed nurse has. . . . But, merciful heavens, she wasn't the least bit pretty. She would look like the tag-end of a hard winter if she weren't as neat as a new pin, Lovejoy told herself with extreme bitterness.

"I'll tell you why you think she looks so fine, Tom Nicholson!" She bit off each word. "Because she pays some Chinese laundryman two or three dollars every week to do up her uniforms for her!—And because she has plenty of time to fix her nails and wash her head and cold-cream her face!"

Her anger seemed to mount higher and higher with every word that she spoke. She set the coffee cup down on the bedside table and clenched her hands.

"If she had to get up at six every morning to heat a bottle for a baby she wouldn't look so slick!" she went on. "If she had to do all the washing and ironing and cooking and cleaning for a family—"

She stopped, choking with the warm tears that came flooding up into her throat and eyes.

"You t-talk about the paint I have on!" she said with a sob. "I wouldn't have put it on my face only Aline told me how pale and wornout I looked last night. She's been telling me for months what a fool I am to slave the way I do—I'm not going to do it any longer—"

She broke down completely, bursting into tears of self-pity. Covering her painted face with her hands she waited for Tom to come and put his arms around her, as he always had when they quarreled.

But this time he did not do it. Peeking through her fingers after a minute or two, she saw that he was calmly pouring himself a second cup of coffee.

That finished her.

"Well, I'm sold out!" she gasped, putting down her hands and staring at him. . . . He didn't care whether she cried or not. He didn't care whether she was tired and overworked and worried about money all the time. She was just his wife, she told herself, and he was losing interest in her. Losing interest in her just as Aldine Alderson had said he would as soon as she began to lose her rosy freshness and her lure. How smart Aline was!

"Listen to me, Tom Nicholson!" she said, getting out upon the floor and facing him. "Listen to me—I'm going to have a nursemaid or some kind of a maid to help me with all the work around here! I'm going to get one tomorrow—and on Saturday you'll just have to have the money to pay her! Now, just paste that in your hat, because I mean what I say!"

He said nothing to that. Nothing at all.

He had set down his cup and was picking up his Sinclair Lewis book.

"That's all right, too! You don't have to answer me—you heard me!" Lovejoy snapped at him. "It's your fault that I'm dirty and messy and tired-looking now. But it will be my fault if I ever am again, believe me you—"

"Norrie!" she called loudly as she started out of the room on the way to her bath. "Norrie, can you stay all day, dearie? Tom wants me to stay in bed and rest. We didn't get home until 3 G. M. last night!"

There was silence for a minute, and then Norrie's voice from the kitchen:

"Yes, I can stay, Lovejoy, if you need me. I'll be glad to stay."

There was a slight eager sound to her voice. It sounded as if she really was glad to stay.

* * *

Lovejoy shampooed her bright hair after she had had her bath.

When it was dry she came back to her bedroom to get into bed. She had made up her mind to stay there all day long, no matter what happened.

The room was beautifully clean.

Norrie had made the beds and put everything into apple-pie order. The shades were pulled halfway across the windows, and one window was open, letting in the crisp sunny air.

"Where's Tom?" Lovejoy asked, her eyes on his empty bed.

"He's in the living room, reading the paper. I made a fire there," said Norrie. "He said he'd take his bath as soon as you'd had yours."

A few minutes later Lovejoy heard him singing while he took his shower bath.

Still later he passed the open door of her room dressed in a clean white shirt and a pair of disreputable-looking corduroy trousers that he called his Sunday pants.

He spent the rest of the morning in the tiny garage behind the house, tinkering with his car.

At 2 o'clock Norrie brought Lovejoy her Sunday dinner on a tray. Chicken pie and lima beans and fruit salad and coffee.

"Norrie, it's a joy to have you in the house," Lovejoy told her with a little laugh, "even if you are so clean and sweet that Tom's gone hay-wire over you."

It really was a joy to have her in the house. It was pleasant to lie in bed, Lovejoy told herself drowsily, and know that the baby was safe and comfortable, that the dinner was well-cooked and that the whole house was in perfect order.

I should never have let her leave when the baby was a month old, she thought, I should have kept her here to help me, and Tom would simply have had to pay her her wages.

He'd have to make up his mind to have some help in the house from now on!

Because I'm sick and tired of being a human vacuum-cleaner, Lovejoy said to herself, cutting her chicken with her fork. From now on I'm going to be a clinging vine and a gold-digger rolled into one!

* * *

She came as maid-of-all-work, and all she asked for was $9 a week.

"We're getting her for practically nothing because she's not well-trained," Lovejoy had told Tom the night before when she broke the news of Hilda's coming to him.

"You realize that we can't afford her—even at nine bucks a week," he had answered grimly, and Lovejoy had shrugged her shoulders.

"All I realize is that I can't do the work alone any longer," she had told him lightly. "I'm getting old and haggard before my time."

On Thursday morning the first of the letters from South Port came—the first of the letters from Aline's Jack.

On Friday morning she brought another one into the house from the mail box on the front porch.

On Saturday afternoon another one came, and she met the postman at the steps and brought the letter to Lovejoy a moment later.

"Somebody writes every day to you!" she said, smiling broadly. "Oh, how lovely to get a letter every day from somebody! I look and look and look for letters from my friends in the Old Country. I wish Hilda could have a letter every day like Missus!"

The look of the Old Country—the north country from which Hilda had come—was on her. The pale gold of a northern sun was on her hair, and the pale blue of the cold Danish skies was in her gaze.

They were wide and innocent as a child's eyes.....Evidently it had not occurred to Hilda that the letters from South Port might be from a man.

Evidently she thought nothing about them. Nothing at all.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Incorrect Carriage Restricts the Body

IN making up a list of what should be done to maintain perfect health, it is easy to overlook many vital things. For instance, posture is a most important matter for health. Correct posture in walking, standing and sitting and correct breathing, are necessary for sound bodies.

DR. COPELAND

Did you ever notice that healty persons naturally assume an erect attitude? Those who are not well are likely to move and work in a relaxed position.

There are, too, many people, sad to say, who go about, all unthinkingly, with a slouchy, faulty posture. They do not seem to realize that an habitually bad posture may become a habit, and a habit which may lead to poor health.

It wasn't so long ago that it was considered bad manners to sit in any way but a "bolt upright" position. In that position stomach and bowels and all the organs are kept in the right place. You are able to breathe properly. In such a position the weight of the stomach assists the automatic movements of the bowels, so that free excretion results.

When you sit or stand in a correct, upright position your chest is thrown forward free and unrestrained, you are able to fill your lungs with air and to breathe deeply. What is the result? The blood is made to circulate more quickly, stimulating the whole body. You feel more physical vigor, the digestive organs are stimulated to better work.

Perhaps never before in America has so much attention been paid to good posture in children as now. Of course, many of our boys in military school have had the advantage of training in good posture. It is only recently that girls have received as part of their education serious physical training.

Today our public and private schools have their gymnasiums, where the youth of America learns to stand correctly, where poise and good judgment are taught in athletic games. Health is the first consideration in all these supervised pursuits.

We have the Boy and Girl Scout movement where boys and girls are taught to stand correctly and the out-of-doors is part and parcel of their lives. Business men take time to go to the gymnasium to keep fit. It is our fault if we do not acquire the right posture.

Are you giving proper attention to everyday exercise and good posture? We all want good health. We should go systematically about getting it. An erect, graceful carriage is an asset anywhere.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Sure and Deadly

NEXT to dead love there is nothing quite so DEAD as a dead joke. That's why when I come across an "old-maid" joke, I feel like laying a wreath of immortelles at its feet and lilies at its head.

* * *

The census may prove that there are more than a million unmarried women in America. But there are no "old maids." They all disappeared along with gasoliers, high shoes, tatting and "refined manners."

* * *

There are plenty of voluntary spinsters. But you can't tell them from divorcees or happily married women, except by the fact that they can usually afford better hats, give bigger tips and have more time and money for matinees.

* * *

The unmarried woman of today doesn't try to laugh off her single blessedness by calling herself a "bachelor girl." And she is much more likely to think gratefully of the man she just escaped marrying, than to think regretfully of the man she just missed marrying.

* * *

This doesn't mean that she doesn't WANT to marry. She DOES. Every normal woman knows that marriage is the natural climax to Life's Little Drama. No woman's life is complete without the comradship of the Right Man. And no honest woman will deny this.

* * *

But when a girl has listened to the woes and wails of a lot of her married friends, and has had a chance to observe their husbands off-parade, she almost begins to wonder if there ARE any "right" men—or any men who STAY "right" after marriage.

* * *

She knows that life without companionship is lonely—only half a life. She would gladly exchange her latchkey for a kitchenette and her desk for a cookstove if she were sure of getting the "companionship."

* * *

But, on reflection, she prefers the occasional attentions of a few men to the permanent inat-

tention of just one. The irregular devotion and presence of a beau, to the regular absence of a husband.

* * *

The modern girl can't see the use of spending her best years training a man in the way he should go—just in order to have him go some other woman's way as soon as he can afford a valet and a couple of motor cars.

* * *

The bachelor's struggle to keep out of matrimony never discouraged a girl's dreams of marrying. But the married man's struggle to escape from it has dampened all her rosy enthusiasm.

* * *

That is why the world is so full of unattached women, who know that they are missing the best thing in life—but haven't the courage to gamble on a long chance. Yet, the gamble is always worth the risk—and a glorious failure is far better than a lonely and inglorious "success."

* * *

Marriage may be a daring and venturesome thing, in these days—but single blessedness is a dead sure thing. Sure and DEADLY!

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Brown Entertains In South

WHILE we in the North are huddling about the fireplace, or even the prosaic radiator, folks down South are playing golf and tennis and are swimming and yachting, and doing all sorts of nice, summery things. And we hear of many entertainments they give, too.

It's true they don't have the subtle beauty of winter landscape for roasting, of course, down South. And all these are compensations so much that a few folks go to Switzerland or Canada for tobogganing and skiing.

* * *

ONE prominent hostess at Florida's most brilliant resort, Palm Beach, is Mrs. W. Harry Brown of Pittsburgh. She gave a luncheon Wednesday in the Royal Poinciana for the Schuyler Leggets of New York and Capt. Frederick Roy, of Washington, who arrived that same day at the resort.

Mrs. Brown is planning to go to London later, I hear, and will be in Mayfair for the summer when social life is brilliant. Mrs. Brown is noted in England for her entertainments.

* * *

I'VE already told you about a number of entertainments planned in honor of Eleanor Chalfant, daughter of Mrs. Henry Chalfant of Ridge avenue, who'll marry John Crossan Cooper, Jr., son of the John Crossan Coopers of Baltimore, Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock in the Chalfant home.

And now I've heard of several more events. Eleanor's brother, Henry Craft ant, will entertain the younger guests at a luncheon in the Allegheny Country Club tomorrow, and at the same time the A. Marshall Bells will entertain the older guests in their home, Ridge avenue.

Today Mrs. Warren Wells is giving a luncheon.

* * *

AND now I can tell you of an engagement that will interest all members of the younger set and their elders too. Mrs. Chambers McKibbin, of the Schenley apartments, has made known the engagement of her granddaughter, Katherine McKibbin Schley, daughter of Charles Schley, of Shepherdstown, W. Va., and the late Marion McKibbin Schley, to H. Allen Mackenney, Jr., son of the H. Allen Mackeneys of the Schenley Apartments.

* * *

THE George S. Olivers have sailed for the West Indies, have you heard?

And did you know that Emily Stuart, daughter of the James Lyall Stuarts, is the guest of relatives in Detroit, and that she'll go later to St. Louis, Mo.?

The George Phelps Roses have gone to Los Angeles. And later they'll visit their son-in-law and daughter, the junior James William Bennings, in Victoria, B. C. Mrs. Benning was Mrs. Sara Rose Frick.

* * *

AND the Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander has arrived in Palm Beach after cruising about among the Florida Keys enjoying the fishing. Mrs. Alexander, who is now abroad, probably will join him later.

Eben F. Byers, who is chairman of the greens committee of the new Seminole Golf Club, Palm Beach, is attending luncheon at the clubhouse today.

This evening the George A. McKinlocks will give a dinner in their Palm Beach home in honor of their guest, Dr. George Vincent of the Rockefeller Foundation. And Mrs. Henry R. Rea will be one of the guests.

* * *

MRS. NETTIE A. SYKES of Lehigh avenue, East End, announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Pauline Sykes, to Walter Andrew Welday, of Denniston, O., and Los Angeles, at a luncheon on Saturday, January 18, in her home. Covers were laid for 20. That evening Mrs. Sykes gave a bridge-supper of five tables to announce the betrothal to another group of friends. Miss Sykes has not yet named her wedding date.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. B. HOFFMAN of Black street, East End, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jeannette Estelle Hoffman, to Samuel A. Weiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Weiss of Vermont avenue, Glassport. Mr. Weiss is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and Duquesne University law school and a member of Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity.

BROOKLINE CHAPTER, No. 117, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a card party on Wednesday at 1:30 o'clock in the Oppenheim Collins auditorium. The committee consists of Mrs. Essie Lang, chairman; Mrs. Bessie Stelzer, Mrs. Olive Ochsenhirt, Mrs. Margaret McNeilly, Mrs. Blanche Chreiman and Miss Sara Leeburn.

FUR-TRIMMED SUITS TO BE POPULAR FOR SPRING WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—Fashion's trump suit is the fur-trimmed variety often of velvet. Its inclusion in most of the midseason collections would indicate that it will not only maintain but increase its popularity for early spring wear. However sumptuous its material or trimming there is always an engaging "dressmaker" air about the suit which makes it excellent for general day wear, whether for shopping, luncheon at any place, from the simplest to the most pretentious establishment, matinee or tea. And so it is not surprising that it is so popular.

It is only surprising that it has not been in as great demand of late as it now is. Black velvet with fox trimming in various shades seems to be especially liked, and is frequently seen on milder days. The house of Worth has been amongst the most consistent supporters of this suit, in fact can almost be regarded as its sponsor.

* * *

ALREADY, we can gain some idea of what type of dresses will bloom in the spring, for the tailored type of dress with little "dressmaker" touches to lighten its severity and lend it added charm are already being shown and ordered by women who are selecting their winter vacation wardrobes. Little capes will be a feature of such dresses, and heavy crepe will be one of the most used mediums. To give you an idea of the type of dress to which we refer and to help you in planning your early spring wardrobe, we are showing you a sketch of one of the most admired little frocks seen during several visits to various houses. The frock which is by Mag-Helly is of black crepella, and an ensemble note is had by adding a circular but shallow cape set on to a narrow yoke of white crepe, a note relieving the somber tone of the all black frock. Diagonal piecings crossing the figure at front and back, and at the knees in deep sidepleats. This is an exceptionally good model, for all types of figures.

THE fur-trimmed suit shown here is one of Worth's most recent models. The black velvet is heavily trimmed with red fox. The frock entirely of velvet is belted at the high waistline and has a set-in cluster of pleats in front. The flaring coat dips in back and has wide cuffed sleeves.

College Club Talks Over Interests

IF, instead of making "Is the Woman's Club Dying?" its subject for yesterday afternoon's meeting, the College Club had queried, "Is the College Club Dying?" one might have answered with a very decided negative, taking the quality of yesterday's discussion alone as sufficient basis for the reply.

The only part in the program which the subject-interrogation played was when Mrs. Norman C. Riggs gave a pithy and decidedly humorous resume of Anna Steese Richardson's magazine article on the samp subject. Since Mrs. Richardson spoke only of "the traditional club" (by which it is understood she meant the early type of culture club), the question could scarcely be made applicable to an organization such as the College Club with its wider activities. As Mrs. Riggs in her summing up put it, "Club women have done an objective and subjective work that is almost marvelous. We may look upon the woman's club as having matured and borne daughters that will insure immortality."

How the College Club may satisfy the average member, the business and professional woman and the member just out of college, was briefly outlined by Mrs. John V. Breisky, Mrs. George McBride and Katherine MacCloskey. Then Mrs. R. E. Somers circulated questionnaires which produced spirited discussion interesting only to College Club members or the observer of the general trend of club affairs.

* * *

THE committee having charge of the luncheon to be given at the Hotel Schenley February 8 by the American Association of the University Women plans to make the affair an all-nations luncheon in every sense of the word. Each table will seat 10, nine of whom will be Americans and the tenth a foreign student who will be a guest. One of the attractive features will be a roll call of the nations, which will be answered by a representative of the nation who will unfurl his (or her) country's flag, place it in a standard on the table and give the salute.

The speaker for the occasion will be Domaso Inoso, one of the most brilliant of the younger literary critics in Spain, who will have "Contemporary Spanish Literature" for his subject. Miss Nell McKenry, president of the branch, is taking reservations for the luncheon. Mrs. Frederick B. Chalfant is chairman and Mrs. Charles Bowser vice chairman.

CLUB NOTES

AS a part of the Y. W. C. A. budget campaign activities, International Institute's new and permanent headquarters in South Diltridge street, were formally opened yesterday. What has been done to transform an old store building into a most attractive and comfortable home is little short of astonishing. To view this transformation hundreds of visitors dropped in during the receiving hours yesterday afternoon and evening, heard the lovely music, had a cup of tea and admired their surroundings.

One enters the house from the side over a little stone terrace. The extremely large assembly room is, of course, the chief architectural feature. It, as well as the other first floor rooms, is carpeted in plain taupe and the walls throughout the house, with the exception of "the green room" are papered in cafe au lait of a suitable pattern. The furniture and pictures from the former headquarters fit themselves most admirably into the new home. Quantities of spring flowers and the gay pieces of embroidery from many nations and the odd bric-a-brac, also redolent of other lands (which make International Institute as interesting as a museum), gave an especially festive air to the housewarming.

The first floor of the house is occupied by the assembly room, reception room, green room, cloak room and kitchen. On the second floor, where tea was served yesterday, are the executive offices, a second cloak room and bath rooms, and on the third floor is the dictation room and a small apartment of living room, bedroom, kitchenette and bath.

During the afternoon a concert orchestra under the direction of Victor Saudek gave a program, and at night the International Institute Chorus, directed by Mrs. James H. Greene, sang three groups, various types of folk songs, Foster melodies and Negro spirituals. At the tea tables were Mrs. Earl Blough, Mrs. Frank Ingersoll, Mrs. Alexander tMurdoch, Mrs. A. W. McEldowney, Miss Eleanor Gillespie, Mrs. Thomas R. Hartley, Mrs. Thad A. Starzinski, Mrs. Roy A. Hunt, Mrs. Lee Johnston and Mrs. I. P. Tolmachoff. Miss Eleanor Gillespie, Institute chairman; Miss Laetitia Hunter, chairman for the housewarming, and others received together.

The report luncheons of the Y. W. C. A. came to a close yesterday with a total of $90,901.82. The Rev. W. T. Lytle, pastor of the Ben Avon United Presbyterian Church, spoke, and paid high praise to the Ben Avon chapter of the "Y," which, he said, is the only adult organization unifying community life there. The campaign will close Monday night with a dinner.

'Stenog' Hates Her Boss

By WINFRED BLACK

MISS MARY JANE WATSON doesn't get along very well with the Boss.

Mary Jane is a sort of second secretary to a big manager of a big business.

She's a good stenographer. She can read and write and spell and she knows that Chicago is not in Louisiana and that New Orleans is not in Connecticut.

She can take dictation like a house afire, and she's good-looking, neat and orderly.

She has an excellent memory and she always knows what time the Boss ought to leave the office to make the Directors' meeting. But the Boss doesn't like Mary Jane Watson, and Mary Jane Watson knows it, and every time the Boss is absent-minded or a little quick in his temper Mary Jane Watson thinks she is going to lose her job.

She's worried to death about it—and she's also cross.

"Now isn't it a shame," says Mary Jane Watson.

"I do all my work just the very best I can, I never slight a thing, and yet the Boss just hates me.

"I hate him too—I always have hated him.

"I hate the way he walks, I hate the way he talks, and I positively loathe the way he clears his throat, and when he coughs I'd love to open the window and push him right out of it.

"I hate all his little fussy ways and I hate his voice when he talks over the telephone—but I never let him know any of these things.

"He thinks I'm just crazy about him, and everything he does.

"I don't see why he hates me so."

Your Boss knows how you feel about him—he probably doesn't care a snap whether you like him or not, as long as you do your work he pays you to do, and do it well, and do it with a snap.

But, of course, he'd rather have someone in the office with him who likes him. We all like to be liked—don't you know that, Mary Jane Watson?—and we all know when we are not liked, too.

The office boy knows whether you like him or not, and the telephone girls know which one of them you like best, and the assistant office manager may not have time to think much about it, but she knows whether you like her or not, and nothing you say or do or hint or excuse, or explain makes the slightest difference.

If I were that boss of yours I'd get rid of you within 24 hours, no matter how clever or how capable and how industrious you are.

Like your boss, Mary Jane Watson, or else go and find a new boss that you can like—and that's my advice to you, Miss Watson.

LION WANTS IN, STOVE GOES OUT—STILL NOTHING TO WRITE ABOUT

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, By Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.

THERE'S no getting along with Blanche Sweet. An interviewer traipsed up to see her 'tother day and told her what to talk about. Blanche refused. Certainly she wouldn't discuss such a subject. And then began to with gusto. For an hour. Not being satisfied with that, she visited the interviewer the next day and discussed some more.

And the first crack at me at a luncheon is she hasn't seen her name in the colyum for ages.

"But you aren't interesting," I reminded her, tactful. "You only get by because you're Mrs. Alexander's granddaughter Blanche."

Blanche Sweet

Which, to my surprise, she admitted was true.

Yet even so, the Sweet and Mrs. Clarence Badger ventured to the Bs' mountain cabin in Lone Pine. Up thar in the snow topped mountains. The water pipes burst. The oil stove refused to work. The roof leaked. A mountain lion prowled beneath their window all night. A swell week-end. But nothing to write about, even so.

Quoth Gertrude Olmstead after putting away a right smart meal: "I get my lunch free and spend $8 having it massaged off." In other words, Scotch and American a-clashing . . .

Out Universal-ways, Mary Nolan is preparing to begin work in "Young Love," which is a title and not quoted irony. William Janney, the lad who brothered for Mary Pickford in "Coquette," will hero for Miss Nolan. And Florence Dudley has been signed to play the sister. Florence is blond and attractive and stepping along in this flick racket.

Three Songs, One Day, That's Berlin

IRVING BERLIN got going one day and when he stopped he'd written three songs. Being a record as records go.

Sue Carol was put smack in her place 'tother day. On "The Golden Calf" set. Where sundry children were emoting along with Sue and Jack Mulhall. She noticed one lil' feller with his coat buttoned tight to his chin.

"You'll get too warm with your coat buttoned like that, Sonny," Sue opined.

"Ma told me to wear it closed," firmly.

"But she didn't know it would be so hot under the lights," said Miss Carol. "I'll unbutton it for you."

"Why, where's your shirt?" Sue cried.

ZONING CHANGE PROTEST MADE

Home owners of Mt. Lebanon are expected to attend a meeting of the township commissioners, Monday night, to protest the passage of an ordinance providing for the rezoning of a portion of Washington road to admit erection of business buildings. J. A. Walsh, president of the Civic League of Mt. Lebanon, said that letters had been sent to all members of the league, notifying them of the meeting.

The league was organized last year for the purpose of opposing attempts to erect business houses in the residential district. Several previous attempts had been made to change the zoning of the district, and all such changes have met opposition from home owners.

The ordinance under consideration now will be up Monday night for final reading and passage. It provides for extension of the business zone from the new municipal building south on the west side of Washington road to 724 Washington road.

Smoking Rag Causes Alarm Downtown

A pedestrian who saw smoke issuing from an office on the third floor of a building at 640 Liberty avenue early today sent in a still alarm which brought out a half dozen firemen. The smoke was traced to the office of Dr. Fred H. Coldhouer and there, firemen say, they found a rag burning in a pan on a small stove. There was no damage.

WILD WINNIE ON STANLEY SCREEN

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

This thing called love is all mixed up on the Stanley screen. In the talkie, "She Couldn't Say No," which opened there yesterday, the heroine, a night club entertainer, is loved by a song plugger, while she loves a young racketeer and he, in turn, goes "goofy" over a society debutante. And—smacking movie tradition right in the face—when the final fadeout comes none has won his or her heart's desire.

The wild and face-contorting Winnie Lightner plays the heroine. She sings five or six songs. She is a great big laugh—that is, half of the time. The other half she spends in hiding a broken heart. And this isn't always so becoming to Winnie. But you do marvel that one so funny can be so sad.

AGAIN HE DIES

Chester Morris is the young racketeer—the fellow who is loved so madly by Miss Lightner, who, by the way, looks old enough to be his older, or rather oldest sister. However, the victim of habit on the screen, Mr. Morris gets out of affairs with the police and of the heart by exiting, via the deathbed route.

By the time all this has happened, our heroine has risen from night clubs to star in a new Broadway revue. But, sobbed-up by the hero's death, it looks like she won't be able to go on. Then she learns it was his money that backed the revue. So shouting something about it being HIS show, she starts toward the footlights and thus finis is written to this latest Warner Brothers-Vitaphone production to come to our town.

LAUGHS AHOY

"White Caps," a sort of musical comedy that impresses as being a tabloid version of "Hit the Deck," is on the stage. It has happy and pleasant Dick Powell appearing as leading man as well as m. c. And there's a moment when he forgets dignity and wavey hair long enough to roll over the boards with the hot-cha-cha boy, Bobbie Pincus. A quartet presents songs, two fellows do neat tumbling and a clever little comedienne frolics about. All the while the audience laughs and applauds. And well it should. The production is one of the best we've seen in the Stanley. Congratulations, Mr. Warner and Mr. Powell.

NEW DRAMA, "BROTHERS," COMING

Bert Lytell, star in "Brothers," coming to the Nixon next week, is a member of Hollywood Post, American Legion. He was in the officers' training camp at Waco, Tex., when the armistice was signed. Mr. Lytell never fails to visit the veterans in each town that he is appearing.

"Blossom Time," perennial musical hit, returns to the Alvin next week for a farewell visit, as its managers, the Messrs. Shubert, have announced absolutely that this is the final tour. Seats are now on sale for all performances. Genevieve Naegele appears as Mitzi and Knight MacGregor, Scotch tenor, plays the role of Franz Schubert.

Today Robert Warwick, star of the stage and screen, makes his final appearances as guest star with the George Sharp Players in "Her Friend the King," in the Pitt.

NEW PICTURE TODAY

Beginning today, Bebe Daniels will be heard again in the R. K. O. Sheridan Square in her latest production, "Love Comes Along." Lloyd Hughes, Ned Sparks and Montague Love are in the cast.

Victor Graff's show, "A Trip Around the World," opens on the Harris stage today. "The Shannons of Broadway" is the film.

SOCIETY DRAMA

A cast of veteran Broadway actors, headed by Ruth Chatterton, the star, will be seen and heard in the Penn Monday in the all talking comedy-drama, "The Laughing Lady." Miss Chatterton in the title role plays the wife of a wealthy Wall Street banker who divorces her after she becomes innocently involved in a society scandal. Clive Brook plays the male lead.

The Fox "youth unit," a chorus of nearly 100 dancing girls under permanent contract for musical productions, while in existence less than a year, already has its organization of "old timers." Sixteen of the girls who won their contracts by work in "Fox Follies" and who appear in "Sunny Side Up" talking singing dancing film, which will begin a third week in the Aldine Monday, have formed a club, elected officers and have meetings at regular intervals.

Man Caught Under Falling Tree Dies

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 25.—John Gaz, 52, Brighton Township farmer, died in the hospital from injuries received when crushed under a falling tree.

SPOOK CLASH ON ENRIGHT SCREEN

By EDWARD GOSS

The spooks disappear from "Darkened Rooms," showing in the Enright, when Evelyn Brent, starring as a spiritualist's assistant, ushers in a very real and blood-curdling apparition, thereby spoiling her employer's great hoax from which he expected to gain $10,000. Evelyn's spellbinding boss is Neil Hamilton and she loves him. Neil is a photographer by profession but a spiritualist by desire and, because it is a long cry from a lens operator to a medium, Neil becomes something of a lost soul. Then, too, he attempts to be a very mercenary medium, regardless of result. Because Evelyn loves the photographer she rings in the spook, paralyzes him, with fear, tells him to stick to making pictures and brings everything to just the right close.

"Darkened Rooms," an all talkie picturization of a Sir Philip Gibbs story, is one of the best tales the Enright has shown. It leaves out the sloppy "good-bye, I-love-you-dearly" finale and allows its principals to act like normal persons. Evelyn and Neil knew the story and knew how to put it across. They don't even fall into a kiss at the end, thereby winning deserved approval.

On the stage, Jay Mills, master of ceremonies, introduces his latest song composition, "Your Love Is the Theme Song of My Heart." It is tuneful. Foster, Fagan and Cox, singing harmonists; Ted Norris, dancer, and the Rockets also appear.

Will Rogers Says:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 25.

Well the conference didn't do anything yesterday as usual, but there was a famous case being tried where a fellow had swindled, through fake stock transactions, the people out of ten million dollars. They just give him 14 years so fast that it took the Americans breath away and all they have talked about is English justice compared to ours.

Its the consensus of opinion of all of them here that if it had been at home he would have gone into vaudeville or the Senate. None of that habeas corpusing and suspended sentences or appealing it when you commit a crime over here. You just wake up surrounded by a small space. Our delegation ought to be over here studying British justice.

Our battleships are not harming us near as much as court delays, corruption and shyster lawyers. Went to his home last night and had a two-hour visit with the great Bernard Shaw and for once in m life I knew enough to kee still and he was going grea I invited him to America an he is coming as soon as I com home and civilize em.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question—Is crime on the increase in Pittsburgh?

ANGELA MOLINERO, entertainer, Beechview—"I think crime is greater in scope here now than ever before. A lot of the crimes are ones of violence. The others are not so bad, but they cost their victims time and money. I believe we should have a bigger police force. That might change the situation? Pittsburgh is growing so big that the present police officers have so much territory to take in they can hardly break up all the lawlessness."

Angela Molinero

LUCILLE LOEB, East End—"In recent months criminals have become more brazen in their activities but I don't believe crime is on the increase any more than it ever was. Formerly criminals were men and women of the toughest type with little if any breeding and education. Now you can find them traveling in some of the best and most exclusive circles. Bigger and Better is Pittsburgh's motto, so as population rises, so will the percentage of crime. It's bound to."

Lucille Loeb

GEORGE VORWICK, musician, Downtown—"Yes, crime is on the increase, very much so. In certain sections of the city, especially in Morningside, lawlessness prevails to a great extent. Taking the city as a whole, I believe I am safe in saying that crime has increased to a marked degree in the past few years. We have rackets in Pittsburgh now that we never even knew of a few years ago. Prohibition is the cause of a lot of them. The police will have to keep on their toes if they want to clean up on the lawbreakers."

George Vorwick

VINCE BORRELLI, pianist, Harris Theater—"Is crime on the increase? I'll say it is. Read the papers every day and you'll see that lawlessness is more prevalent than ever before. There are more murders, robberies, stick-ups and other crimes than in previous years. Our police courts are kept busier and the judges, in many instances, are working overtime. Perhaps the situation will change in time."

Vince Borrelli

VICTOR GRAFF, master of ceremonies, Harris Theater—"My opinion is that crime here isn't any worse than it is in other cities. When one takes into consideration that there are more than 1,000,000 people living in the Greater Pittsburgh district, the answer is that a certain percentage are potential criminals. Using this basis of reasoning, it is logical to say that as population increases, so will the percentage of crime. It has been proven so in Chicago, New York and other cities."

Victor Graff

LOUISE DE FOREST, dancer, Harris Theater—"Many of our streets are unsafe for women and girls at night and in some outlying sections even in the daytime. Doesn't this go to show that crime is increasing. Criminals are becoming more brazen. I believe that Pittsburgh's lawbreakers are taking their tip from the arch criminals in other cities, such as Chicago, Philadelphia and New York. I couldn't give you a solution for the crime because I don't know one."

Louise De Forest

Eddie Cantor Rises to Say:

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.

WELL folks, today you are going to hear about the naval parley in London—if you are interested. Well, anyway, you're going to hear about it. The representatives of the five powers are all doing quite a bit of talking with the exception of Stimson. He has been comparatively quiet. In fact, he has said so little, we could just as well have sent over Coolidge or "Harpo" Marx. However, Stimson is brilliant and when the time is ripe he will say something that will make everybody happy. Well, everyone but England, France, Italy, Japan and maybe Russia.

When the parley is over you will find that England did all the broadcasting, France the articulating, Italy the pleading, Japan the suggesting and America, all the cutting.

If I were the American delegates, I would at least hold out for one ship to take them back to this country.

'Public Improvements Promote Progress'

Convinced that public improvements exert an important influence upon the progress of any community, the Board of County Commissioners of Allegheny County, on January 1, 1924, initiated a program of major public works, many of which are already effectively serving the citizens, while others of vital importance are being rapidly brought to completion.

In order to safeguard traffic and prevent accidents there was installed at dangerous places along our County Highways 55,715 feet of substantial cable fences during the year 1929. Our topography unavoidably compels the construction of roads with steep embankments along the margins. The presence of safety guards at such places will protect even a careless driver from serious accidents.

J. Ralph Crutchfield Says Only 10 Per Cent of Space Empty at Present

Within a short time Pittsburgh will have absorbed substantially all of its surplus office space in the opinion of J. Ralph Crutchfield, manager of the Law and Finance Building which is operated by the H. C. Maddux interests of Washington, D. C.

Mr. Crutchfield pointed to the fact that at present vacant office space accounts for 10 per cent of the total in this city, according to a survey made by the Building Owners and Managers' Association. This does not appear particularly large when it is remembered that the figures include many older buildings which have passed their periods of usefulness as first-class office quarters.

NEW INDUSTRIES

The needs of new industries coming to Pittsburgh and the expanding requirements for office space of older organizations will, within a short time, absorb the most desirable footages of the 10 per cent margin now available, Mr. Crutchfield pointed out.

While Pittsburgh passed through a period of exceptional activity in office construction a short time ago, only one major office building project is due to be started at present.

The company planning this has been badly cramped for space for years, and it will bring many of its outlying offices into the city when the new structure is finished, so that its own requirements will take a very large share of the additional space off the market.

The hole to be left in the building now occupied by this organization will be immediately taken up by an even larger company, which has been seriously cramped for space at its present location for many years.

Mr. Crutchfield believes that May 1 will be marked by fully as much office moving as a year ago, when some of the new buildings were first available for occupancy. In most cases the firms making these changes of location will be taking more space. This may be expected to materially reduce the margin of vacancies.

The next year will be marked by a widespread limitation in the choice of available office space. While a moderately large total of floor footage may be vacant, the wide variation of individual requirements may make it difficult for organizations to find quarters ideally suited to their requirements.

While Mr. Crutchfield admitted that some organizations are deferring the leasing of new office space in the hope of making better arrangements, he expressed the opinion that they will not be able to do as well next year as at present.

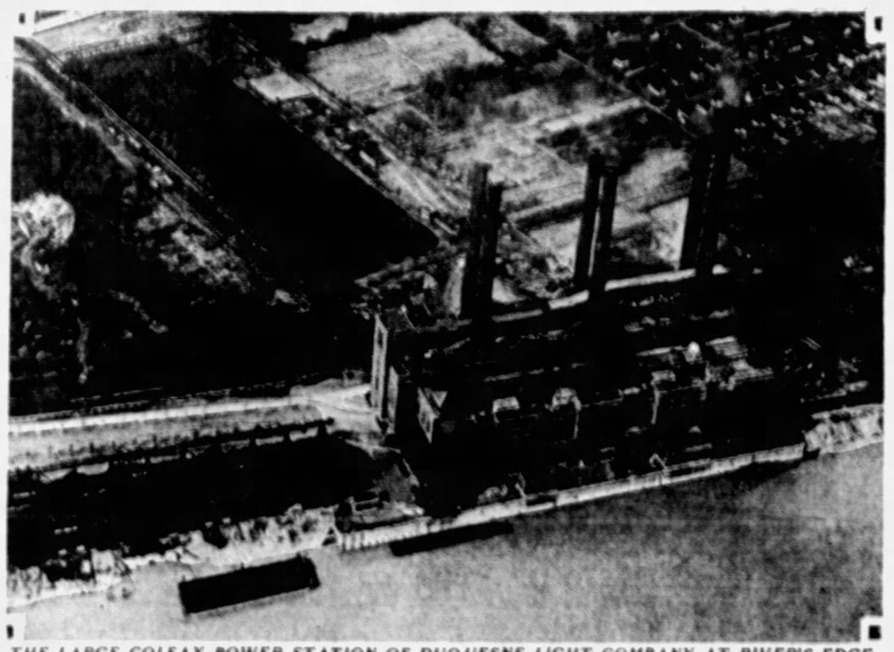
LARGEST MINE MOUTH PLANT



THE LARGE COLFAX POWER STATION OF DUQUESNE LIGHT COMPANY AT RIVER'S EDGE

Promotions Made By Local Bank

C. W. Orwig, vice president of the Commonwealth Trust Company, announced yesterday that the board of directors elected Harvey R. Owens assistant treasurer, Ralph H. Herrod assistant secretary, Robert G. Fiscus assistant trust officer, and H. C. Gardner manager of the mortgage department. The promotions were made necessary by the growth of all departments of the business.

USES POWDERED FUEL

Colfax power station, which supplies the people of Pittsburgh with light and power, is one of the largest "mouth of mine" plants in the United States. Next to fuel, the prime requisite of a steam power plant is water and there are but few localities outside of the Pittsburgh district where a large power plant can be located at the mouth of a coal mine and at the same time near a large body of water, such as a lake or river, adequate to supply the condensing water for a station capacity of 300,000 kilowatts or more.

The mine supplying Colfax is located about one mile from the plant and is directly connected with it by means of a railroad owned by the Byllesby interests. The mine proper contains more than 2,500 acres of coal and has an estimated life of nearly 40 years at the present rate of consumption.

A feature of the Colfax plant is the stoker-fired furnace. Coal used to condense the water obtained from the Allegheny River is first pulverized to particles of minute size and a forced draft carries the pulverized coal into the furnaces. One of the things that attracts the eye of the visitor to Colfax is the cleanliness of the plant, there being little or no evidence of coal in the plant proper. Giant turbines generating current for the customers of the Duquesne Light Company grind out their product day and night, year in and year out. Thousands have visited this plant and gained first-hand information on the way a community of the size of Pittsburgh is supplied with its power. Anyone desiring to visit Colfax is privileged to do so after obtaining the necessary pass from the company at 435 Sixth avenue.

MAKES TALKIE EQUIPMENT

Electrical Research Products, Inc., a subsidiary of the Western Electric Company, opened its offices in the Koppers Building, and has recently expanded and taken additional space.

Portable motion picture projectors have been available for some time and have found wide applicational for educational and commercial work. As soon as talking pictures became practical and popular, the Research Laboratory's engineers bent their efforts to perfecting a projector that would be easily portable, and would show sound and talking pictures. Their experiments resulted in a perfection of two types of equipment, both portable and both highly satisfactory as producers of sound.

PORTABLE MOVIES

The first type portable equipment is entirely contained in five trunks, each trunk holding one or more units of the system. It can be assembled or dismantled at a moments' notice, and is ideal where movability is a prime factor. An interesting illustration of this was made on the Los Angeles Limited, through the Electrical Research Products, Inc., and the Union Pacific Railroad and the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation. The equipment was set up in the dining car of the train which had been hung with draperies and actually resembled a well-appointed theater. With a presentation of "The Virginian," a talking motion picture was given for the first time on a moving train.

In the second form of portable equipment, trunks are not provided, but this type projector, like the first, can be stored away when not in use, and set up again with little difficulty.

FORMED IN 1927

Electrican Research Products, familiarly known as "Erpi," was formed in 1927 to take over the portions of the business of the Western Electric Company which were not concerned with the manufacture and distribution of telephone apparatus and supplies. Erpi has been principally concerned with the development of the then infant "talking" industry. Since 1927 the talkie infant has developed into a lusty giant, whose seven league boots have carried him into nearly every country on the globe. Up to November 16, 1929 850 theaters had been equipped by Electrical Research Products, Inc., in foreign fields, and the audiences of 2,957 theaters in the United States and Canada have been enabled to hear and see their favorite stars through the medium of "The Voice of Action."

Mergers Retarded by New Policy

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

A CHANGE in the policy of the United States Department of Justice may result in a slackening of the pace at which industrial consolidations have been taking place. It is understood that the steel merger plans of Cyrus S. Eaton have been considerably curtailed as a result of this change in governmental attitude. The companies recently lined up with Republic Iron and Steel constitute only a small part of the ambitious program originally laid out by the Cleveland financier.

Many lawyers and bankers state that the administration is tightening up on the enforcement of the anti-trust laws and is now disposed to interpret them more stringently than has been the practice in recent years.

The change in attitude has been growing more apparent since the inauguration of President Hoover and the coming into office of Attorney General Mitchell.

No Unofficial Rulings

IN RECENT years the change in the public attitude towards big business and the growing belief that alterations in the anti-trust laws would be desirable have resulted in the giving to corporations of a greater degree of latitude on the question of consolidations than was the case when legislation was first enacted on the subject.

During the Coolidge administration it became the practice of the makers of new consolidations to unofficially place their plans before Department of Justice officials. The department was in the habit of expressing an opinion on the legality of the proposals.

This made it possible to complete mergers without the fear of costly investigations or the possibility of a dissolution order. The practice eliminated the danger of injury being done to the various units of a consolidation by a long period of uncertainty regarding the final outcome of a merger.

New Policy Adopted

UNDER the new regime preliminary approval of consolidations will no longer be given. This again exposes corporations involved in mergers to the danger of governmental interference and an ultimate unscrambling of eggs if a merger is found to reduce competition. It means that a greater amount of caution will have to be used in the future than in the past since it cost nothing to have a plan on paper rejected but it will be extremely expensive to have a consolidation forbidden years after it has been made.

While the reason for the change in policy has not been made public, it is generally understood to be due to the fact that unofficial rulings are not provided for under the existing laws. The Hoover administration apparently does not want to make the anti-trust laws an exception to the general law enforcement policy.

Rigid Enforcement

THE new administration attitude seems to be that the anti-trust laws should be rigidly applied. If changing business conditions have made these laws obsolete the alterations should be made by new legislation rather than by changing the policies of the Department of Justice.

The policy may be expected to result in attempts to secure new legislation on the subject of business competition but its immediate effect has been to defer several rather important groups of merger plans.

Glass Trade Shows No Change For Week

The American Glass Review, in its issue of January 25, 1930, says:

"The demand for window glass evidenced some little improvement this week, but is yet well below the point which would warrant terming it satisfactory for this time of year. In other branches of the flat glass industry the situation is in all major essentials the same as a week ago. Movement of plate glass is along quiet lines, although prospects appear good for an early quickening of activities in this field. Both production and shipments of rough rolled and wire glass products continue in fair seasonal volume."

Glidden Company Sales Increased

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25.—Adrian D. Joyce, president of the Glidden Company, states that sales for the fiscal year beginning November 1 show an increase of $2,376,442 over previous corresponding period and for the first two weeks of 1930, an increase of $454,093.

TO SEEK NEW BUREAU

Very unsatisfactory conditions existing in many juvenile detention homes in Pennsylvania, and the detention of children in jails and other institutions for adult offenders contrary to the state law were revealed by K. D. Magruder, secretary, Western Branch, Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs, at a round table session during the state conference on social welfare at Erie, Pa. Justices of the peace and aldermen, he stated, are daily violating an act applied to Allegheny County by holding primary hearings on juvenile cases instead of giving the Juvenile Court absolute jurisdiction immediately upon arrest of children.

Among other things, Mr. Magruder advocated a State Bureau of Advice and Information, professionally qualified probation officers at more adequate salaries.

Among the Pittsburghers attending the conference were Paulson Foster, judge of Juvenile Court; J. C. Coulter, chief officer, Western Penitentiary; A. L. Wills, superintendent, Juvenile Detention Home; J. A. Downes, Juvenile Court Probation Department.

STEEL ACTIVITY INCREASES SLOWLY

Production Slightly Over 65 Per Cent—Quotations Show Downward Tendency

By B. E. V. LUTY

Steel production has increased slightly in the week and the general rate may be set at a trifle over the 85 per cent estimated for last week. There is no significant increase in demand generally but there is heavier production of rails, specifications having come in freely against purchases made during the buying movement.

There is quite a percentage increase, over a month or two ago, in the amount of steel being shipped to the automobile industry, but in point of tonnage the increase is not large. It is a fairly liberal estimate that 10 per cent of the steel now being made is going to the automobile industry.

OUTPUT HIGH

All things considered, steel production is now at rather a high rate and predictions that there will be a large increase in the next six weeks, a period mentioned in Wall Street talk last Thursday, or in four or five months should accordingly be viewed with reserve. The present rate is about 25 per cent under the average rate in 1929, a remarkable year, 18 per cent under 1928, a very good year, 7 per cent under 1927, which was only a slightly off year, and 13 per cent under 1926, which in its time was considered quite a good year.

Thus it is rather easy to slip into predictions which, when interpreted, are found to call for better times than ever, and that in all probability no one really expects. If anyone does, the explanation would make interesting reading.

MAY SLUMP

There is, in fact, room for decreases along certain lines in the present flow of steel. Steel moving to structural fabricating shops may be mentioned in particular. Bookings of these shops were very heavy indeed through last October, leaving much business on books requiring months to complete. November and December ran distinctly light and bookings thus far this year have averaged scarcely one-half the average rate of last year. Unless there is a great improvement in bookings the flow of steel from mill to fabricating shop will decrease within a few months.

Another line is freight car steel. On January 1 Class 1 railroads had 34,581 freight cars on order, many more than one year or two years previous, which appears to make a very good showing, but the number is 8,905 less than the recent peak, on May 1, 1929, and of late car buying has been light, only about 2,500 cars having been reported in the last three weeks as bought.

These points are mentioned simply to provide a broader view of the situation, to dispel any impression there may be that expected improvement in steel requirements will be absolutely all along the line. Chances of increases preponderate over chances of decreases, of course, but there is nothing universal about it.

PIPE OUTLOOK

Pipe mills expect a fairly heavy demand for line pipe this year, chiefly for natural gas. There was heavy demand in 1928 and phenomenally heavy demand in 1929 and there is much more work of this sort to be done. In the last two or three months there has been very little line pipe buying on account of the season, the preference being to lay lines in time for completion just before winter. There is a strong probability that the Texas to Chicago line, long considered, will be laid, nearly 1,000 miles and involving perhaps 200,000 tons or more of pipe for the one project.

Merchant steel bars have become quotable at $1.85 to $1.90, Pittsburgh, against $1.90 previously and $1.95 for several months when the market was at its best. Cold finished bars declined from $2.30 to $2.20 about November 1 and the price held rigidly for some time, but in the last week or so there has been so much shading that the market is regarded as quotable at a range of $2.10 to $2.20. Pipe and standard rails are the only important finished steel lines which have not had more or less decline.

COMPLETED $300,000 PAVING JOB

IRVINE STREET IMPROVEMENT MADE IN 1929 BY THE M. O'HERRON COMPANY FOR $300,000

O'HERRON HAS ACTIVE YEAR

Among them was the Irvine street improvement, which was a mile in length, extending from the intersection of Hazelwood avenue to the intersection of Greenfield avenue, eliminating two railroad crossings and reducing the congested traffic.

Irwin avenue on the North Side, intersecting North avenue and Beech avenue, was another construction job completed during the year. This was perhaps one of the most needed improvements of the last decade. A bridge over the Pennsylvania Railroad at the intersection of North and Irwin avenues was raised and widened. With the raising of the bridge and the widening of the street to 43 feet, this should practically eliminate accidents and greatly speed up traffic at this point.

The M. O'Herron Company also completed about a mile of the Boulevard of the Allies during 1928. This piece of construction extended from the Twenty-Second Street Bridge to Forbes street.

Coke Production Declined in December

A further contraction characterized the coke and pig iron industries during December. For the first time in 1929 production of coke was less than for the same month in 1928, while the output of pig iron was the smallest since December, 1927.

The total production of by-product coke for the 31 days of December amounted to 4,180,601 net tons. The daily rate of 134,858 tons was 6.4 per cent less than for November, and was the lowest since September, 1928.

The total output of beehive coke for the month was 344,900 tons, or 13,796 tons per day, a decrease of 13.2 per cent when compared with the daily output in November.

The decline in coke production was due almost entirely to the diminished activity of the blast furnaces. According to the Iron Age, the daily production of pig iron in December was 13.7 per cent below that of November.

PLATE GLASS AT RECORD

The plate glass industry established two new records in 1929, these being for the amount of production and consumption of that commodity, according to the National Glass Budget.

During 1929, there were 150,498,287 square feet of plate glass produced in the United States, according to figures compiled by Paul A. Hughes, secretary of the Plate Glass Manufacturers of America. In December, 99, production fell off noticeably when only 8,482,289 square feet were manufactured.

Up until the end of November imports of polished plate glass totaled 10,136,990 square feet and estimating imports for December at 1,000,000 square feet would show that domestic production, along with imports totaled 161,635,277 square feet, which is by far the greatest amount ever available. From this total by estimating domestic imports during the year at 2,055,000 square feet indicate a total of 159,580,277 square feet for consumption.

Prior to 1929 the banner year was 1926, when 134,241,215 square feet were manufactured in the United States. Imports that year totaled 26,064,263 square feet, making a total of 160,905,478 square feet available for use. Exports of plate glass that year totaled 855,157 square feet, leaving for consumption in this country 160,050,321 square feet.

It is interesting to compare production and consumption of plate glass in the United States for the year 1919 with that of 1929. Ten years ago, or during the year 1919, production totaled 48,639,822 square feet. Imports that year amounted to 4,173 square feet. Exports totaled 7,328,099 square feet, thus showing the consumption in this country of plate glass in 1919 to be 41,325,896 square feet.

During the past year new plate glass works have been under construction and will be ready for operation at an early date. Old works have been modernized until there is a capacity that could produce 200,000,000 square feet of plate glass during 1930 if a market could be found for that amount.

SILVER DEMAND GAINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—In sharp refutation of reports emanating from Mexico that the use of silver in the arts is on the decline is the announcement by the Sterling Silversmiths Guild of America that the consumption of solid silver increased 10 per cent in 1929 over the previous year. The arts and industries of the United States and Canada consumed nearly 37,000,000 ounces of silver last year, the high mark for all time, the previous record having been 33,500,000 ounces in 1928.

Sterling silverware consumption for household use with an increase of almost 8 per cent, was as usual, the largest single factor, both here and abroad. The chemical and photographic industries used together about 10,500,000 ounces, also showing a small increase over the preceding year. It is interesting to note that, despite increased sales of pewter during the past year, the consumption of sterling and high grade plated ware showed no ill effects but rather made large gains.

Fourth of World's Tin Goes Into Cans

Tin cans in 1929 consumed more than one-fourth of the world's supply of tin, and the proportion will be higher this year, according to figures compiled by British producers. Eight billion cans were manufactured in 1929 and 45,000 tons of pure tin were used. The great increase in food canning throughout the world will boost these figures to new heights in the next few years.

BUSINESS FOR WEEK UP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The volume of check payments during the week ended January 18 fell below those of either the previous week or the corresponding week of last year, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. Receipts of wheat, cattle and hogs for the latest reported week were larger than during the previous week and, except in the case of hogs, larger than for the corresponding week of 1929. Cotton receipts, on the other hand, were smaller than for either period. The distribution of goods, as reflected by freight-car loadings covering the latest reported week, continued below the corresponding period of last year.

Cotton prices were slightly higher than during the previous week, while prices for wheat and iron and steel products declined, prices for cotton and steel also being lower than a year ago.

Bank loans and discounts were also slightly smaller in volume than during the previous week, but were larger than for the corresponding week of 1929. Bond prices receded fractionally from last week's level and were 2 per cent lower than a year ago. Business failures were fewer than during the previous week but somewhat more numerous than during the corresponding week of last year.

RETAIL TRADE REPORTS GAIN

Greater Part of Business Due to Clearance Sales, Says Mercantile Agency

There is a slight upward trend in the distribution of merchandise at both wholesale and retail, although merchants appear to be proceeding rather cautiously, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

Variable weather conditions have not been conducive to a steady volume of sales and the greater portion of the business with retail stores has been due to clearance sales. Travelers in most lines only started on the road about the middle of the month and orders being received are comparatively light.

Construction work is not active at present. Building permits thus far this year have been light. The local automobile show this week is attracting a large attendance and sales are reported in considerable volume. Demand for accessories is comparatively good.

PRODUCTION GAINS

There has been some increase in the rate of industrial operations during the past week. The demand for electrical equipment is well maintained and manufacturing plants in this district continue to operate at a very fair rate.

Manufacturers of sanitary equipment are not as busy as a year ago at this time, and demand is quiet. Production of crude oil shows a moderate decrease, and prices paid in the Middle Western fields have been reduced on some grades.

COAL UNCHANGED

The situation on the bituminous coal market shows little change. Production is slightly higher than a year ago, but demand is slow and prices unsatisfactory. Western Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal are quoted per net ton, at mines, as follows: Steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; steam slack, 80 to 90 cents, and gas slack, $1 to $1.10.

There has been no apparent improvement in collections which continue to average slower than usual.

Plan Action Against Unreliable Bidders

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—Industry, the public and reputable general and public works contractors will be protected against bidders for construction work whose previous job performance has been unreliable, if the Associated General Contractors' plans are carried out to determine prequalification standards of firms and individuals contending for construction awards.

Methods for weighing bidders' previous performances, based on the quality of previous work, whereby wasteful and inefficient contracting firms would be listed in the same derogatory category with those guilty of unfair practices and fraud, were detailed to the 1,000 delegates of the Associated General Contractors of America meeting here.

W. H. SLOAN

SALES EXCEED MILLION

Sales in Allegheny County Memorial Park, Pittsburgh's new park type cemetery, have reached the $1,000,000 mark, according to W. H. Sloan, recently appointed organization manager for the company.

This represents more than one-third of the number of lots in the park, which are being sold on a novel plan, by which the prices are advanced with the completion of sale of one block and the opening of a new block. Sixteen blocks out of a total of 47 have already been sold. Prices will continue to advance with the opening for sale of subsequent blocks.

In honor of the splendid work of the sales organization, the Memorial Park Company plans a banquet and celebration on Friday evening, January 31, to be held in the Blue room of the William Penn Hotel. Their regular Friday evening broadcast from Station KDKA at 8 o'clock will come from the banquet hall, so that listeners may share in their good time.

No small part of the success of their sales is attributed to the popularity of the Sunday afternoon program, which the company has been broadcasting for the past 14 months over Station KDKA.

MARKET HEADS UP AGAIN AT OPENING

Westinghouse Electric, Eastman, Fox Film, G. E. Show Initial Gains

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The main price movement at the opening of today's stock market was again upward. Initial gains of a point or so were recorded by Westinghouse Electric, Fox Film, General Electric and Eastman Kodak. United States Steel common opened unchanged at 176. Advance Rumely common dropped 1⅜ and the preferred yielded fractionally.

Increasing irregularity developed as the session progressed with some of the recent leaders running into heavy profit taking. There was little in the overnight news to influence the price movement. The weekly mercantile reviews throwing little new light on the general business situation.

Hocking Valley, which has not sold for some time, jumped 30 points above the previous sale. Auburn Auto, which is reported to have recorded unusually heavy sales this month, jumped 13¼ points. Warren Bros. DuPont and American Tobacco B advanced 2 points or more.

Publication of a disappointing December railroad earnings compilation probably accounted for the liquidation of some of the railroad shares, Chesapeake & Ohio dropping 2 points and Missouri Pacific preferred 1½.

DU PONT NET HIGHER

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The annual report of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., for 1929 shows that the company's volume of business increased 13 per cent during the year, and that the general level of operations was greater than in the previous year, resulting in an increase in net income of more than $24,000,000.

The income report showed net profits of $78,171,730, which, after deducting dividends paid on the debenture stock, is equal to $7.69 a share on the common stock. This compared with net income of $64,097,797, or $6.27 a share, in 1928.

Of the total income for 1929, which amounted to $81,999,782, it was shown that $42,939,452, or more than one half, was from the Du Pont Company's investment in General Motors. Operations of the company during the year netted $34,212,150 and the income from "miscellaneous and marketable securities" was placed at $4,848,179.

During the year the income from operations increased approximately $11,750,000, that from the investment in General Motors about $5,000,000, while that from miscellaneous sources dropped about $1,400,000.

On December 31, 1929, the Du Pont Company owned 70 per cent of the capital stock of the General Motors Securities Company, which in turn held 14,062,500 shares of General Motors common stock, representing 32.33 per cent of the outstanding common stock of the corporation. This 70 per cent interest in the General Motors Securities Company corresponds to 9,843,750 shares of General Motors common stock, which, together with the Du Pont Company's direct holdings of 137,470 shares, or a total of 9,981,220 shares, constitutes 22.94 per cent of the common stock of the General Motors Corporation.

Steel Corporation Operating at 75%

Ingot production of the United States Steel Corporation is now at slightly better than 75 per cent against 72 per cent a few days ago. There has been a steady increase in operations of the corporation since the holiday season when shut-downs brought output to below 50 per cent.

U. S. I. ALCOHOL INVENTORIES MODERATE

Company Facing Current Year in Good Condition; 1929 Earnings Increase

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—United States Industrial Alcohol is starting the new year with favorable prospects for a satisfactory volume of business. Demand from consumers of anti-freeze alcohol for automobile radiators has been as large as a year ago, and since jobbers have practically no stocks on hand the outlook for substantial repeat orders during the remainder of the winter is excellent. A survey recently made of this market for alcohol shows that competitive anti-freeze preparations have so far made no inroads on the use of alcohol.

United States Alcohol has a moderate carry-over of alcohol made from the low cost raw materials last year and also has a substantial carry-over of low cost molasses, so it will receive the benefit of the slightly larger margin of profit on this material from this year's higher alcohol prices.

INDUSTRIAL BUYING

Industrial buying of alcohol has been good, with contracts so far placed for 1930 quite as large as those booked a year ago. U. S. Industrial Alcohol has substantial orders from motor manufacturers, from the lacquer industry and from other chemical manufacturers. The chemical industry in particular has placed orders that indicate no expectation of any drastic slowing down in this division of business.

There lately has been a good deal of discussion of various unfavorable factors which may affect the alcohol business adversely this year, notably the higher price of molasses; reduction of 15 per cent in output this year under government regulations; the growing competition from synthetic producers and the generally lower prices of solvent chemicals other than ethyl alcohol.

PRODUCTION COST

As a matter of fact, there is so far no real indication of any substantial decline in U. S. Alcohol's earnings this year.

In the first place, the price of molasses is now around 11½ to 12 cents a gallon, against 9½ cents a year ago, or about two cents a gallon higher. Since it requires approximately 2½ gallons of molasses to produce a gallon of alcohol, this means an increase of five cents in the cost of a gallon of alcohol. Incidentally, it should be remembered that U. S. Alcohol has an unusually favorable position for the purchase of molasses, and it is therefore likely that its cost runs somewhat less than the average market price.

COMPETITION SEEN

While it is true that there is indication of probable future competition from synthetic alcohol producers, this will not be a factor for at least a year and can hardly be important within two years. Union Carbide's new plant, for example, will not start producing until next August and its output probably will be at the annual rate of 10,000,000 proof gallons or 5,000,000 wine gallons, which is hardly large enough to disturb the present output of 100,000,000 wine gallons annually (reduced to 85,000,000 currently) from the whole denatured alcohol industry.

Obviously, the trend in the chemical industries is toward growing competition, as the various companies develop numerous new processes and by-product uses. To jump to the conclusion, however, that original producers will be seriously harmed seems unjustified.

1929 PROFITS UP

U. S. Alcohol should report for 1929 net profit of around $5,000,000, or between $12 and $13 a share on the 371,000 shares outstanding, against $3,703,200, or $11.81 a share on 320,000 shares reported in 1928. Although 51,000 shares were issued in exchange for stock of Kentucky Alcohol Company, purchased last July, earnings of this company for only the last six months of the year will be included in the total net reported.

Like its affiliated company, Air Reduction, U. S. Alcohol may be depended on to set up generous depreciation reserves. In addition to this, the charges for repairs and maintenance last year will be large. The company probably closed the year with a cash balance of more than $5,000,000, since cash and secured loans total $4,930,789 last June. Current assets as of June 30 totaled $16,326,704, against $3,515,790 current liabilities.

The capital stock is now on a regular $6 annual basis, and an extra of $1 was declared at the last meeting.

Campbell Predicts Good Steel Year

Steel business is better than anticipated and will improve more rapidly in the near future than we believed possible several months ago, said Chairman Campbell of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

The automobile industry is taking more steel and releasing orders more rapidly than we recently expected. He said the steel industry is building up a back-log which will insure higher and more stabilized operations.

Ford Employment Shows Improvement

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—Employment in the Detroit area of Ford Motor Company, including the Highland Park-Lincoln and River Rouge plants, is now 105,223, an increase of about 5,000 during the past six weeks.

KUHRT HEADS GRAIN BODY

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 25.—W. J. Kuhrt, of Washington, D. C., grain marketing economist of the Federal Farm Board, was elected general manager of the Northwest Grain Association, which includes 25 representatives of co-operative grain marketing groups of Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana.

His selection was made by the association's board of directors at a reported salary of $12,000 annually. The directors announced that the Farm Board had authorized a loan of $25,000 to finance the association during its initial organization work.

Most of it is to be used in getting a start toward organizing local co-operative groups throughout Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana as the members of the new Northwest Grain Association, which will act as the agency of the Federal Farm Board and its Farmers' National Grain Corporation in moving grain in orderly fashion from the co-operative elevators in the country to terminal markets. The Farmers' National Grain Corporation, through its own agencies, will attend to the buying and selling of the grain at the exchanges.

Tax Exemption Case Lost By Gulf

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 25.—Exemption of stock owned in subsidiary corporations outside the state by the Gulf Oil Corporation, Pittsburgh, in payment of the Gulf's capital stock tax for 1924 and 1925, was denied today in an opinion of Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods.

State officials declined to reveal the amount of money involved in the case, but it is believed to be considerably large in view of the extensive holdings of the Gulf Company.

On authority of the opinion, Frank H. Lehman, deputy auditor general, refused to approve the assessment of the company's tax by the Department of Revenue and directed the Revenue Department to re-assess the tax to include the holdings in subsidiaries.

Recent Industrial News Favors 'Bull' Side Of Market.

RECENTLY the news has been favoring the bulls. This applies in particular to the gain in steel production and better demand for automobiles. The course of the stock market depends more on the trend of trade than any other development and activity in these lines will do more to take up slack than anything else. Secretary of Labor Davis reports the first gain in employment since the October panic, another card for the bulls. The bears admit industry has been showing gains but they add "all will be well and good if the gains hold."

The contention of the average observer around Wall Street to the effect that the public is showing a willingness to nibble again if evidence of a better market develops, appears to be well supported by current trend of events. Commission house business, including that done over the wires from the interior, is reported better than at any time since the middle of last month, when strong effort was being made to stir up a "Xmas" market. Brokers reported rather generally that the trend of things showed a marked willingness on the part of the outside speculative element to string along on the side of the advance in the belief that the current activity and strength may mark a definite turn for the better, speculatively.

GROUP operations are increasing again. However, most of the pools seem to be working in the medium priced shares, and these have been among the leaders during advances recently. The general theory is that the stocks being operated were thoroughly liquidated during the break in the market. At that time they did not have the benefit of banking support which was in the leading issues to stabilize the situation. Many believe that moderate advances in some of the standard stocks which were bought by the banks, either

Wall Street Is Migrated to Playgrounds

—By B. C. FORBES—

WALL STREET has adjourned to Palm Beach, to world cruises, to the shores of the Mediterranean and to other places where, sports not stocks, merry-making, not money-making, prevail. Now is considered the ideal time to go vacationing without fear that things will boil over in the financial world. Many bankers, brokers, stock operators and others feel that another such opportunity may not come soon. You would be astonished to know how widespread the belief is that Wall street activity will revive in the near future and become quite lively before 1930 ends. At that, this expectation may be fulfilled. The stock market couldn't well be deader than it has been lately. Such dealings as have been witnessed have been mainly between professional traders. Orders from the public are mostly on the buying side.

WHY is this? Railway presidents nearly all tell me that there has been no appreciable increase, but in many cases decreases, in the number of their shareholders during the last 12 months, whereas the gains revealed by presidents of industrial and utility corporations are in many instances quite extraordinary?

Again, decreases rather than increases have been the rule among holders of preferred stocks. Common shares of non-railroad companies have easily led in popularity.

Is it that the railroads have been attracting "bigger and better" stockholders? Or is it that the public expects that other stocks will do better than rails when the recovery sets in? They may be right.

THE London Stock Exchange and its ways are a century behind the times. It prizes tradition; Wall Street prizes business.

No member of the London Stock Exchange is allowed to advertise in any form whatsoever. Neither must he allow a salesman to call, nor must he send out even a circular to endeavor to secure new customers. It isn't quite cricket, don't y'know, to approach any old top to whom you haven't been properly introduced!

Obviously every business concern must attract new customers each year or stagnate. This inexorable law applies even to London Stock Exchange firms. The consequence is that the average London brokerage house, as measured by New York standards, is ridiculously unprogressive, ridiculously unprepared to furnish up-to-date analysis and other information. Statistical and research departments such as we have here are almost unknown in London, first, because London brokers couldn't stand the cost, and, second, they couldn't disseminate such data to attract business—oh! dear no!

Several American firms, discovering how totally uncultivated the British investment field was, opened offices and started to make things hum. They quickly were requested to read rule such-and-such of the stock exchange's regulations, which, of course, prohibited doing anything calculated to build up business. One New York Stock Exchange firm damned rule such-and-such and went full steam ahead. Shocked, the dignitaries of the London exchange solemnly notified all its members that they must under no consideration do any business with or for this flagrant Yankee smasher of the ancient institution's ancient traditions.

Even so, American banking and brokerage houses have established branches in London and succeeded in finding ways and means of earning profits. Among them are the National City Bank, Guaranty Trust, Bankers Trust, Morgan Grenfell, Equitable Trust, Harris-forbes, Lee-Higginson, E. H. Rollins, Brown-Shipley, Harvey-Fisk, etc.

Some day, of course, this "American invasion" will cause the sleepy old London stock exchange to come to life.

CHARLES M. THOMSEN, recently elected president of the Pacific Coast Biscuit Company in succession to his 80-year-old father, Moritz Thomsen, now chairman, told me while in New York this week that the Orient has developed a great liking for American crackers. His company's shipments to China, Japan and Manila last year reached $250,000. The yellow races have also developed a sweet tooth, and now are buying enormous quantities of candy, mostly hard candy.

Young Mr. Thomsen — who has just been made a director of the National Bank of Commerce, Seattle—finds that, notwithstanding the so-called war in China, the purchasing power throughout the Orient is steadily expanding. He states that another company in which he is interested is rapidly increasing exports of sanitary supplies, indicating that civilization is on the up-grade. Like Robert Dollar, Mr. Thomsen visions almost limitless commerce between the Pacific and the Orient in coming years.

COMMENTING on a recent paragraph regarding the piano industry, Gordon Laughead, of the Wurlitzer Grand Piano Company, writes that "the annual sales of grand pianos have shown an increase each year." While the radio naturally affected the piano business, he states:

"Some of us are quite optimistic that within a year or so the tide will turn in favor of moderate-priced electrically pumped instruments. The public is very fickle in selection of home musical entertainment."

He names various piano companies that are enjoying prosperity.

THE late J. P. Morgan's advice, "Don't sell the United States short," is particularly worth remembering at this time.

Holding Company Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The Parker bill providing for an investigation of the ownership and control of all utility and railroad holding companies, investment trusts, etc., was passed by the House yesterday.

Chairman Parker, of the Interstate Commerce Committee, explained to the House that he believed a thorough investigation is necessary before the committee could proceed with any consideration of legislation looking toward railroad consolidation. He said that all holding companies or business or financial organizations owning stock in railways will be investigated.

Congress, he declared, wants to know exactly who it is who owns the railroads.

Representative Rayburn, ranking Democratic member of the committee, pointed out that the roads are a natural monopoly and have been made a monopoly by law. He said the only competition is in service, and that this is a desirable thing to have. If the roads are owned by a holding company or investment trust, he said, competition is eliminated.

SHEET STEEL DEMAND UP

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25.—Producers of cold drawn steel bars and shafting have reduced prices $2 per ton to $2.10, Pittsburgh, despite a gradual expansion in business, says Daily Metal Trade. Orders are increasing but still are confined to near future requirements. Current structural steel demand is light, but a number of large projects are in prospect, and the long view of the situation in this market is considered bright. Improved sheet demand is reported in the East, where interests identified with the automotive industry are beginning to show more interest in their requirement.

Plate mill operations are being stepped up with more tonnage coming out. Shipments of semi-finished steel are proceeding at a steady rate to detached mills, although some tonnage is being stocked. Iron and steel jobbers at New York are reported planning to revise some of their quotations in line with recent adjustments by the mills. Demand for pig iron continues to improve.

Bonds Comprise Week's Financing

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—In week ended January 24, new financing totaled $72,485,000, entirely bonds against $207,058,000, in preceding week of which $305,058,000 was in bonds and $2,000,000 in stocks, and $340,412,900 in 1929, week of which $119,567,000 was in bonds and $220,845,900 in stocks.

Bond financing for year today totaled $490,600,000 against $202,801,500 in 1928 period and stock financing $2,000,000 against $350,878,400 in 1929.

Rubber Production Curb Is Proposed

END OF SLUMP BIG QUESTION IN BUSINESS

To Know Just When Turn Will Come Difficult to Ascertain in Advance

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The most crucial question before the business world is when the current recession in trade will end.

Curiously enough, on the decisive day, when bottom is reached, the business world may be unaware of the fact. One reason for the uncertainty is the fact that there is usually a lag of nearly a month between the occurrence of a business event and its definite delineation in the standard statistics which measure the course of trade. Moreover, bottom is a relative term, which relates to the slump which has preceded and also to the unknown status of trade which lies ahead.

President Hoover's announcement earlier in the week to the effect that for the first time since the slump statistics of employment have turned upward generated more cheerful thoughts in Wall street concerning the nature of the recession in business, which got under way last July. Indicating that the doctors disagree, Miss Frances Perkins, New York state industrial commissioner, remarked that data at her command for this state at least indicated a continuous decline in employment since October.

INFLUENCE VAST

The timing of the end of the trade recession will have a vast influence on speculative and human prospects. Some economists, for example, insist that stocks are cheap at present, provided the business recession proves to be short lived. Furthermore, the opportunity of hundreds of thousands of human beings to gratify their desire to work and earn a living will be contingent on how soon revival in trade comes.

Charles J. Bullock, president of the Harvard Economic Society, for the benefit of members, has essayed to peer into the crystal ball and read the story of what lies ahead for business in 1930. He expressed the opinion that the bottom of the trade movement might well be attained within the next 30 or 60 days. So far as business is concerned, the economic sage insisted, nearly all developments since the middle of November have been such as to indicate that the economic readjustment is not of major proportions, but is temporary in character and will be followed presently by recovery.

As straws showing how the trade winds were blowing, Prof. Bullock said that data concerning retail sales and especially the distribution of automobiles after the Wall street debacle were not so bad as they might have been, and, though not exactly good, were distinctly encouraging.

The Harvard soothsayer indicated his belief that the barometric steel industry was now showing evidence of scraping bottom, implying that it would soon show an upward trend again. Prof. Bullock added that the action of the steel scrap market indicated that such upturn in steel as may be developing will not prove a mere flash in the pan.

EARLY TURN SEEN

Speaking on behalf of the Harvard Economic Society, Mr. Bullock made these specifications for business in the months that lie ahead: "We believe that the recession will have run its course in the next 30 to 60 days. In March or April, we should get some seasonal spurt. Whether the increase in the total volume of business will amount to the full seasonal gain I am not prepared to say at this time. Spring trade this year should prove pretty good, but not brilliant. It will not necessarily set new high records, but we should get increased volume of business, perhaps better prices, and possibly better profits.

"As for commodity prices, there are tentative indications that the decline which started last summer may be approaching its end."

Prof. Bullock discouraged expectations of a bull market in bonds. He thought that the rise in bond prices would be checked to some extent by spring demand of business for funds, by an impending large issuance of new securities, and by the fact that banks, especially in the Middle West, are loaded up with security loans. "If we don't have a good bond market, we will have a market for good bonds."

MEMORIAL PAINTING

NORTHCOTE'S "LADY KINNAIRD" GIVEN CARNEGIE INSTITUTE

Memorial Painting Given Carnegie Institute

By PENELOPE REDD

The portrait of Lady Kinnaird by James Northcote has been presented to the Carnegie Institute by Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., as a memorial to her aunt, the late Mrs. J. Willis Dalzell.

The Northcote painting will be hung in the Dalzell Memorial Gallery with the collection at the Carnegie Institute given by Mrs. Dalzell both during her lifetime and by request.

Penelope Redd

Mrs. Dalzell established a laudable precedent in contributing 38 paintings as a memorial to her husband, J. Willis Dalzell. Mrs. Jones has continued the tradition.

The Dalzell Memorial Gallery includes a few modern paintings, but the majority of the canvases represent older modes of painting.

The Italian Primitives, forerunners of the Italian Renaissance and their ultimate descendants of the English eighteenth century portrait school, together with famous names such as Murillo, Hobbema, Van Dyck and Greuze, indicate the character of the Dalzell Memorial collection.

It is strongest in the English portrait school, however. Including, as it does, paintings by Reynolds, Romney, Hoppner, Raeburn and others, the Northcote gift establishes the transition from the eighteenth century into contemporary painting.

Northcote, one of Sir Joshua Reynolds' apprentices, lived in Reynolds' household for five years. His life's span, commencing in the reign of George II, was sufficiently long to paint Ruskin's portrait in the nineteenth century.

Northcote's portrait of "Lady Kinnaird" shows an aristocratic woman in a cream satin Empire gown covered by a long wine-colored velvet mantle. She is posed in an excellently painted landscape. The portrait, designed to hang in a spacious mansion, was first exhibited at the Royal Academy at London in 1812.

The Dalzell Memorial Collection is the first large group to be presented to the Carnegie Institute. Art museums in other cities, having famous permanent collections, notably Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit, depend almost entirely for their important acquisitions upon the voluntary munificence of generously intelligent patrons.

Personal Liberty Rum Plea Hit By Doran

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran told an audience in Town Hall that the question of personal liberty had no place in a discussion of prohibition.

"It is high time that we divest ourselves of the old foggy notions of personal liberty," he said, speaking in a symposium on the "dry view" of the Eighteenth amendment under the auspices of the civic forum.

"The question of personal liberty ceased to exist when two people began to live together in the same place," he added.

"On the question of government supervision depends a large part of the continued prosperity of our country."

WOMEN FORM AIR SOCIETY

Nineteen Pittsburgh women organized the Women's Aviation Association of Pittsburgh last night, and laid plans for an interesting program along the lines of aviation. It was decided that an annual scholarship in aviation would be maintained by the association. It was also planned to purchase an airplane on a "club plan" for use of the members.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c, 30c, 60c.

BIG EARNINGS AHEAD FOR COLOSSUS

INASMUCH as Big Boy Peterson proved even a worse bust and a softer mark than had been anticipated—and anticipations in this case ran pretty low, at that—the success of Primo Carnera, Italy's man mountain, in winning his initial American bout in New York last night by a first-round knockout demonstrated just about nothing. The affair didn't last long enough to give any idea as to what extent Carnera is capable of handling himself in a ring, and the result served to show not so much the possession of any real fistic ability by the Gargantuan invader as the utter lack of it on the side of Peterson, Big Boy has also been stopped in one round by such an obscure heavyweight as Tiny Roberck.

Big Boy Peterson.

So we don't know any more about Carnera's Queensberry possibilities after his debut in this country than we knew previously. Peterson is no match for any reasonably fair heavy, and was a hand-picked opponent to assure the visiting Behemoth's getting a start that would attract favorable attention. The test is not what Primo can do against such setups, but what he can do against really capable fighters. The latter is as much a question as ever.

At that, the huge Venetian's start is bound to yield him a pile of American dollars, if nothing else. He is good for a few more bouts, at least, and it's a safe guess that the ballyhooers interested in his campaign carry him along carefully in such a way that, even if he never gets anywhere in a pugilistic sense, he will be made to prove a strong drawing card from a circus angle, just as they did in exaggerating his height and weight in the first place.

BASEBALL has known some magnates—William F. Baker, Philly president, and Harry Frazee, former owner of the Rex Sox, for example—for whom the dollar sign always appeared to hold a stronger attraction than the figures in the standing of the clubs, and who were generally found willing to sell star players for cash considerations regardless of the extent to which their teams might thereby be weakened.

Possibly there have been some moguls of the same type in professional hockey—men who were not deaf to the clink of the coin of the realm when a chance offered to dispose of crack pucksters at a financial profit, particularly at a time when their clubs were down in the race after a poor start and had no prospect of getting anywhere during the remainder of the season.

BUT the owners of the other clubs in the National Hockey League must be pretty well convinced by this time that in Pittsburgh the major ice loop has at least one set of sportsmen who make the playing interests of their team their first consideration.

This has been shown more than once this season by the turning down of big offers for Hib Milks and Harold Darragh. First the New York Rangers offered $35,000 for those two local forwards, only to meet with a flat refusal. Then Toronto offered $25,000 and two players for the Pirate pair, but this was also rejected.

Hib Milks.

LES CANADIENS, too, put in a cash bid for Darragh alone, only to see their proposition turned down like the others. Evidently sensing that the Pittsburgh club owners could not be tempted by cash, the heads of rival teams have taken a different tack in their efforts to acquire Milks and Darragh, as indicated by the proposal of the Chicago Black Hawks, announced exclusively in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph yesterday, to trade Couture, Arbour and Abel for the Buccaneer duo. However, the prompt refusal of the local chiefs to entertain this offer, as well as that of the Boston Tigers to swap three players for Jarvis, made it clear that the local chiefs are as firmly set against trading quality for quantity as they are against selling athletes for cash.

IT ISN'T often that you find the owners of a tail-end club, boasting only four victories and a tie out of the first 24 games played, a team that has won fewer and lost more contests than any other in its league, sticking so firmly against the making of any deals that might weaken their lineup even though it may appear that there is nothing to be gained by standing pat.

It is a policy as gratifying as it is rare. It shows that the Pirate bosses are keeping an eye open to the future and are determined to build up their club rather than tear it down. Their one chance of getting somewhere one day is to develop gradually new material to surround the first-class men now on the roster. If the nucleus were sacrificed that chance would cease to exist.

THE new trainer of the Pittsburgh baseball club, Dr. Charles A. Jorgensen, Columbus (O.) chiropractor, has a special qualification for treating ball players that has been generally overlooked. For Jorgensen himself is a former player.

Dr. C. A. Jorgensen.

Before starting practice as a chiropractor in Columbus 14 years ago, Jorgensen played professional ball in the old Ohio State League, and also saw service with teams in other minor leagues. So he ought to know a thing or two about baseball ills and injuries and what sort of treatment brings the best results.

WITH Walter Meine, younger brother of Heinie, and also a right-hand pitcher, added to the roster, the Pirates will have two pairs of brothers at the Paso Robles training camp in the spring, as in Paul and Lloyd Waner the regular lineup already includes the most valuable duo from one family in the whole history of baseball. A brother act is nothing new on the Pittsburgh club, as the Bucs probably have tried more sets of brothers than any other team in the majors. Both Ad and Will Gumbert pitched for the Corsairs, though not at the same time, and later came Howard and Harry Camnitz, Carson and Lyle Bigbee, Johnny and Phil Morrison, Roy and Claude Rohwer, and Harold and Arthur Traynor.

PRESIDENT BARNEY DREYFUSS, of the Pittsburgh baseball club, who left last night on a trip to the South for a rest and the benefit of his health, plans to return home the latter part of March to plunge into the work of his office for another season.

The Pittsburgh magnate will depart again about April 13 to get his first glimpse of the 1930 Pirates in their opening game of the season on the road. This will be only the second opener abroad that he has attended in five years.

The former Pirate and Cardinal coach was with the Newark

HYATT STARS AS PANTHERS CINCH SERIES

By JESS CARVER.

Pitt sewed up the annual series with Carnegie Tech in the Stadium last night when Dr. Carlson's Panther passers won their twelfth consecutive ball game of the season and their second of the campaign over the Tartans. Pitt finished on the long end of a 48-to-25 score last night, with Charley Hyatt, of whom you have heard more or less in the past, the dominant figure.

Charley Hyatt

As was generally expected, the Panthers had little, if any difficulty in downing the Skibos. As the game got under way, it looked at times as though Jimmy Traa, the footballer, who was inserted into the lineup as a starting guard, might cause the Blue and Gold a bit of trouble, but they, meaning Pitt, soon got onto Jimmy and at half time, Pitt led, 20-10.

HYATT IS STAR

Charley Hyatt, with no less than 15 points, scored with seven field goals and one out of one foul, was the leading scorer of the night. Hyatt, alert and elusive as usual, was so fast that he had the generally wide awake Warren MacMillan and Tom Campbell looking goofy-eyed as he spun about the floor. Charley threw four goals in the first half and three in the second, before Coach Carlson jerked him out of the action and sent him to the showers.

Les Cohen continued his fine play at center for Pitt, and stamped himself last night as one of the leading pivot men of the section. Capt. George Nease put up a sterling game for Tech, throwing in 12 points, which helped immeasurably in keeping the Plaid in the ball game. He and Traa were the bright figures in the Tech setback. The lineup:

YESTERDAY'S EXPLANATION: A PRISONER IN UNDERGROUND WAS ONLY PERSON SAVED IN MT. PELEE ERUPTION—The eruption of Mt. Pelee, of the Island of Martinique in the West Indies, completely wiped out the town of St. Pierre. By some curious fate the only person spared out of the population of 45,000 was a solitary prisoner in the local jail. His escape was due to the situation of the jail in an underground cell of the old fortress.

Walter was recommended to Manager Ens by Walter Mueller. The Meines and Muellers are residents of St. Louis. Mueller saw the lad pitch and he thinks he is a comer. The rookie is a right-hander; he weights 165 pounds and is five feet 10 inches in height.

CARNERA STOPS PETERSON; FIELDS WINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—In the midst of tremendous excitement generated by 18,000 howling fanatics, Primo Carnera, the man monument from Italy, scored his first knockout in America last night, blasting one Big Boy Peterson from the picture in something less than half a round.

After appropriate unveiling ceremonies, the 269-pound Ambling Alp turned the party into a Roman holiday, smiting Peterson to the floor three times for assorted counts before finishing him in one minute and 10 seconds of what was to have been a 10-round joust. With remarkable speed and knowledge of what to do with it, Carnera dropped the startled Westerner for tolls of three, eight and four before applying the right-hand quietus.

This Peterson stands six feet four himself, but as far as effectiveness was concerned he might just as well have tangled with a fast freight. The sum total of his attack consisted of two waves with the left hand that either brushed or came close enough to Carnera's head, looming there six feet six inches above the deck, to be called direct hits.

It was all very exciting to the spectators, who stood in their chairs to cheer when Carnera was led in and then Peterson led out. The receipts totaled $67,363.

Members of the football squad were notified of Bowser's selection by President Kenneth C. M. Sills, yesterday afternoon. His contract is for one year and is on a full-time basis.

Local Golfers Near Top at Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 25.—Several Pittsburghers played in the Tin Whistle event here yesterday in which a field of 66 competed in best ball foursomes.

One foursome, composed of H. C. Fownes, H. C. Fownes, H. R. G. Morrison and Thomas Morrison, finished 3 up against the winning 5 up. R. W. Smith and J. M. Jameson, of Greensburg, also played in a group that finished 3 up.

PIRATES PLAY 'HOME' GAME AT SHORE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 25.—Pittsburgh's Pirate puckmen will experience the strange sensation of playing a "home" game before a crowd of approximately 12,000 here tonight when they meet the Chicago Hawks at the local rink. The fray originally was scheduled to be played in the Steel City, but the greater popularity of the ice sport here resulted in its being shifted to this city, several weeks ago.

A long workout yesterday under the direction of Manager Frank Frederickson enabled the Pirates to familiarize themselves with the local arena, and the "guests" in this National League joust are confident that they will be able to give their foes from the Windy City a real battle.

HAWKS FAVORITES

Although the Chicagoans did not arrive here until today and have had no opportunity to become acquainted with Atlantic City ice, they have been made slight favorites in the betting. They have scored three successive victories over the Bucs in earlier meetings this season, and at present they are fighting their hardest in an effort to overtake the second-place New York Rangers.

Benny Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight boxing champion and owner of the Pittsburgh club, arrived here this morning and will sit in the Pirate box tonight.

Local fans got their first taste of National League hockey on December 28 when the Ottawa Senators met the New York Rangers here. The fastest of sports scored a distinct hit, and indications are that another capacity crowd will witness the Pittsburgh-Chicago fray.

PLAYERS AMUSED

The manner in which a game is "received" here is amusing to the big time skaters. The contest is regarded as a drama in that silence is maintained while play is in progress, and is broken by cheers at the close of a period.

At the finish of tonight's battle the Pirates will go to New York, where they meet the Americans tomorrow. The Hawks will travel to Ottawa, where they oppose the Senators on Tuesday. The probable lineup:

Pirates.		Hawks.
Miller	G	Gardiner
Smith	G	Wentworth
MacKinnon	C	Graham
Blake	R	Duncanson
Darragh	L	Marsh
Lawry	W	Adams

Spares—Pirates: White, Jarvis, Drury, Shelton, Spring, Fraser, Briden; Hawks: Ingram, Cook, Arbour, Couture, Abel, Roberts, Gottselig, Boutrum.

37 VETERANS, ROOKIES ON BUC ROSTER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Thirty-seven veterans and rookies, representing 20 states, are included in the Pirate roster for this season. Interesting highlights on the athletes' are included in the folder issued by the home office today.

The squad is sub-divided into 15 pitchers, five catchers, eight infielders and nine outfielders. This list is exclusive of Manager Jewel Ens and his coaches and scouts.

The oldest player on the appealing roster is Burleigh Grimes, star pitcher of the team who will be 37 next August. Burleigh is about one month older than Outfielder Ira Flagstead. Jess Petty is about one year younger than the two players mentioned.

MUT AND JEFF GONE

The youngest athlete to appear on the roster is Walter Meine, kid brother of Henry (Heinie) Meine, who will make the jaunt to Paso Robles with the club. Heinie's brother is about 19.

Ervin Brame, the pitcher with the punch at the plate, is the tallest performer on the squad, now that Earl Sheely has left the Pirates. Brame is two inches beyound the six-foot mark. Sparky Adams also having departed, the shortest Pirate now is Fred Brickell who is five feet seven inches. Yet Brick is a little strong boy.

Petty wins the heavyweight prize with a poundage of 195 when in shape. Owing to his recent illness, the silver fox is under that margin at present.

SMALL BUT VALUABLE

One of the most valuable players in the league is the lightest athlete in the Pittsburgh squad. Lloyd Waner is listed as weighing 148 pounds, but he is seldom up this high.

DETROIT, Jan. 25. — (P.)—President Frank J. Navin, of the Detroit American League Baseball Club, said today he would "not even think" of making a trade of Owen Carroll, pitcher, and Harry Rice, outfielder, for Waite Hoyt, Yankee hurler.

"I don't know anything about the reported trade," he said. "But I wouldn't even think of it. You know they make a lot of these trades in the winter."

FIELDS BEATS DUNDEE

Fields wrote the final chapter last night when he decisively defeated Vince Dundee, brother of the boxer from whom he won the title, in their 10-round battle in the Chicago Stadium. He floored Dundee four times in the third round, and had him in distress later in the eighth, but was unable to finish him.

HERRERA VICTOR

Harry Dublinsky, of Chicago, punched out a six-round decision over Jimmy Hackley, of Indianapolis. Johnny Burns, San Francisco middleweight, defeated Joe Gordon, of St. Paul, in another six-rounder. Burns won five rounds, flooring Gordon in the second.

Maloney Stops Emanuel; Loser Claims Foul

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—The slugging onslaught of Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, upset Armand Emanuel of Los Angeles, in short order last night, giving him a knockout early in the second round.

The fatal blow was a left hook to the stomach, which brought claims of foul from Emanuel and his seconds. Referee Jack Sheehan counted him out without hesitation, and Boxing Commissioner Eugene Buckley said the blow was landed cleanly.

Emanuel was taken to a hospital, but Dr. Bernard Devine said the boxer could leave the hospital at any time. Emanuel, who weighed in at 182 pounds to 199 for Maloney, had a slight lead on points at the end of the first round. It was Maloney's twenty-first victory in a home ring.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—George McLaren, for the past three years head coach of athletics at the University of Wyoming, yesterday presented his resignation to take effect at the termination of his present contract, this spring.

McLaren has not announced his future plans. A dearth of football material was understood to be the determining factor in his decision to seek a more suitable position. In his college days McLaren was fullback on Pop Warner's University of Pittsburgh team. No announcement has been made regarding McLaren's successor.

The Tipoff

Having discovered that devlad crabs and cavorka do marthe are not exactly in synch ing terms, Bill Cooper and Fuzzy Dudgeon have decided to switch back to being model husbands.

Ira (Lefty) Hill, now a good lawyer and once also baseball player at Pitt, knocked all the P. Collier town. (This is just a society item gone wrong.)

Tom Campbell—"Darned if I know."

JOEY GOODMAN HANDS BEATING TO STRUB

MAXIE TAKES LACING IN MOOSE GO

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Write a ticket on Joey Goodman, young Jewish lightweight protege of Jimmy Dunn, of Cleveland, to give Champion Sammy Mandell a tough night of it when they meet in Cleveland one week from next Monday night.

Joey made his second appearance in several months in a Pittsburgh ring last night and impressed the fans as he handed out a sweet two-fisted beating to elongated Maxie Strub, of Erie, in the 10-round main bout before a capacity crowd that welcomed the return of boxing to the Moose Temple after the closing down of the ill-fated Coliseum following a single show last week. Last October, Goodman knocked out Herman Perlick, of Kalamazoo, at Motor Square Garden. He looked good then, but he was a much better boxer and fighter against Strub last night.

MAXIE SHOWS CAUTION

Strub is no man's setup. One can count on the fingers of one hand the men who have beaten him during his entire career. Last fall he fought a draw with Goodman in Cleveland, surviving a knockdown and a near-knockout in one of the rounds. Perhaps the memory of that close call was with him last night, for he showed a wholesome respect for the punching ability of his opponent at all times. He seldom led, being content to put up a counter fight and try to tie up his opponent in the clinches.

Getting off to a fine start in the first two rounds, which he won by ripping in vicious right hand uppercuts under the heart as Goodman kept carrying the fight to him, Maxie subsided in the third and thereafter didn't win a round. The last eight rounds found Goodman master of the situation as he bounded lightly in and out and about and hooked with both hands to the head and body out of a weaving, crouching stance, not unlike Jack Dempsey's when the latter was himself. Strub's height and reach availed the Erie boxer nothing, for Goodman hooked his way right through his defense and had no trouble scoring cleanly from the outside and keeping on punching at close quarters. He had Strub grabbing clinches until the fans yelled their disgust at the taller man's tactics.

STRUB HURT IN SEVENTH

The highlight of the battle came in the seventh round, when Goodman, backing Strub before him, suddenly cut loose with an overhand right swing flush on the jaw that caught Maxie in midring and sent him staggering to the ropes backstage. He was badly shaken and hurt, and only Goodman's slowness in following up enabled him to shake off the fog and get his bearings so he could finish the round and fight. As early as the third round, Maxie's nose was skinned and bleeding, and, in the eighth, Goodman's fists raised discolored lumps under both of his opponent's eyes. Joey was fresh and unmarked at the bell. The decision was unanimous in his favor. He scaled 136½ pounds and his opponent was one pound heavier.

Howard Mayberry, Donora veteran, 122½ pounds, bested Jack DeNert, of the North Side, 126½ pounds, in a rough six-round semi-final. This decision also was unanimous, as was that for Freddie Boylstein, of Kittanning, 148¼, over Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, 148½. Boylstein was too classy a boxer for the rugged and hard-hitting Bretsch.

Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, 136½, won by a technical knockout over Jackie Griffiths, of the Hill, 135, in the fourth round of the opener, the referee stopping the bout to save Griffiths from further punishment.

Frank Brown and Frank Ferris were the judges and Red Robinson refereed all of the bouts. Bill Schuster was the announcer.

Between Rounds

Roger Bernard, of Flint, Mich., who holds a decision over Tony Herrera and recently defeated Phil Goodstein here, has been matched to box Earl Hastins, the Chicago star, at the Olympia arena in Detroit next Friday night.

Georgie Peck, of the North Side, boxes Roger Brooks, of Cleveland, in the main bout of a show at Alliance, O., Tuesday night.

Frank Novak, of the North Side, who dropped Sailor Munn in the first round in his professional debut at McKeesport last Thursday night, may appear in the semi-final of the Mickey Scheer-Gene Moretti show in the same ring next Thursday night.

The card for Motor Square Garden a week from Monday night has been completed with the exception of the opening bout. Sergt. Sammy Baker and Joe Trippe meet in a return bout in the window. Bobby Young leaves Young Glazy in the semi-final and Eddie Polo and Dominick Profio are paired for the second number.

Benny Schwartz is training here daily and will be seen in action shortly, probably at Motor Square Garden. He is a pal of Jimmy Goodman, like himself, formerly of Baltimore, and the pair spent the last few days in each other's company here.

Grand Rapids Show Has Four Knockouts

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A fight card which turned out to be 62 2-3 per cent knockouts furnished unexpectedly live entertainment for 5,000 persons here last night.

Lyle Blaine knocked out Leon Jasinski in the fifth round of a "grudge" fight, Ray Trimble, 154, Rockford, Ill., was knocked out by Billy Sherman, 158, Grand Rapids; Billy Kelly, 146, Toledo, took the count at the hands of Earl Worth, 146, Grand Rapids, and Billy Meador, 138, Muskegon, Mich., went down before Benny McArthur, 139, Saginaw, Mich. The other two bouts went to decisions.

DAVIES COPS

TORONTO, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—A rally in the last two rounds gave Willie Davies, 111¼, Charleroi flyweight, a close decision over Steve Rocco, 112, of Toronto, in 10 rounds here last night.

WEST PENN CUP FINAL BATTLE TODAY

TODAY'S GAME.
WEST PENN CUP FINAL.
German Sport vs. Gallatin (O'Connor)

By TOM BIRKS.

With the West Penn Cup final game scheduled for the Westinghouse High School Stadium this afternoon, the largest soccer crowd of the season should be on hand to watch two interesting teams battle to decide who shall hold the big silver trophy for the 1929-30 season.

WELL MATCHED

For many years, in fact since Heidelberg, Morgan and Dunlevy started their cup-winning ways, the final was usually a one-sided affair, the only question being as to what the final score would be.

This season, however, the fans have something new. Two good clubs, well balanced in attack and defense will fight 90 minutes. The winner will have its name inscribed alongside of such names as Arden, Victory Hill, Braddock, Homestead Steel, Heidelberg, Cuddy and Morgan—names that bring back to soccerites locally some of the finest soccer aggregations ever gathered in the United States.

Previous to last Saturday, fans thought Gallatin would only have to step on the field against either the Celtics or the Sport Club, but that battle kille. off any idea of the sort for the German Sport Club put up a battle good enough to beat Gallatin or any other club in the district.

FIELD IN FINE SHAPE

The Westinghouse Stadium, with the best soccer field in the district, gives both clubs a chance to strut their stuff, and at 3 p. m. the battle will be on. Can the German halfback lin. stop Gallatin's attack? No club has turned the trick this season, so it is up to Reisman and his comrades to flash something new. Helbig, Neiderbacher and Nusskern will give Gallatin's defense plenty of trouble. The outcome is in doubt.

Long's Sport Comment

(N. J.) club of the International League last season, and will return to be Manager Tris Speaker's lieutenant there again in 1930 under the second half of a two-year contract.

Jack Onslow.

ONSLOW expressed surprise at the action of the major league clubs in permitting Watty Holm to be sent out of the big show by the St. Louis Cardinals. "While I was coaching in St. Louis I obtained enough first-hand information about the capabilities of Holm to convince me that he is a mighty handy player for a big league club to have around," said Jack. "I am surprised that all the clubs waived on him. They are buying less capable men from the miners right along." Onslow also had a good word for Lester Bell, the third sacker sold by the Braves to the Cubs, and who was playing for the Cards during Jack's Mound City coaching days. "Bell is a darned good ball player, in my opinion," he said, "and I feel sure that he will help Chicago a lot just where the Cubs needed a bracing."

THOUGH gratified at his well deserved advancement to the post of head football coach at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Me., a report of a few days ago that was officially confirmed last night, it is not without a sense of heavy loss that University of Pittsburgh men view the departure of Charley Bowser from the Panther camp after three years of splendid service as assistant to Jock Sutherland.

During his playing days as a Panther, Bowser became such a star when converted from an end into a center that he was selected as center on Walter Camp's second all-America team in 1922, the only man in the country ranked ahead of him being Ed Garbisch, W. & J. product, then at West Point. In 1924, 1925 and 1926, Charley coached at Grove City, succeeding Chalky Williamson, and since that time has been assisting Sutherland.

NO LITTLE share of the credit for the class of Pitt's line play and the strength of Panther teams in general during the last three seasons is due to Bowser. He is one of football's best and Bowdoin's selection is a wise one.

Bowser's shift follows the transfer of another former Pitt lineman, Harvey Harmon, who has just quit Haverford to become head coach at Sewanee, or University of the South, with Paul Scull, Penn captain and fullback in 1928, as his assistant.

ANDY SAVAGE

Savage, center forward of the Heidelberg Eagles, of the Chartiers Valley Soccer League, is the dean of forwards in Western Pennsylvania. He has been the pivot man on nearly all of the leading teams during the past 10 years. American-born, he is a wonderful opportunist, hard to stop and a great goal-getter. He was a member of the Heidelberg National amateur championship team two years ago.

Wife's Love Gone, Broker Sues Attorney

DENVER, Jan. 25.—(AP.)—William Kunkel, New York fruit broker, revealed details of an alleged love affair in which William Bryan Quigley, young Denver and New York attorney, is accused of alienating the affections of Kunkel's wife in a deposition filed here. The broker is suing Quigley for $50,000.

Kunkel's deposition was supplemented by one made by his sister, Pauline, who said Mrs. Kunkel, one-time refugee Russian princess, was found in Quigley's New York apartment "clad only in a flimsy slip" when a "drinking party" got in. The deposition said Quigley was attired in a bathrobe.

Quigley was divorced here on December 13 by Mrs. Virginia Quigley. On October 17 Quigley was taken to a hospital from his wife's apartment here suffering from a gunshot wound, said by police to have been accidentally self-inflicted.

EIGHT ARRESTED IN DRY RAIDS

Raiding five places, three in McKeesport and one each on the South Side and Ross Township, federal prohibition agents yesterday arrested eight men and seized large quantities of moonshine and home brew.

In McKeesport the agents raided a pool room at 1036 Walnut street, where Nick DeCicco, and R. E. Jackson were arrested, and a dwelling in the rear of 1101 Jerome street, where Julia Cindrich and Charles Grdich were taken into custody, according to the agents' report. Although no liquor was found in the store of Adam Choitner, 34, at 1035 Rose street, McKeesport, Choitner was arrested because a "buy" had been made in the place, it was reported.

John Johnson, Mickey, Myers, and W. E. Brill, were arrested in an alleged speakeasy at 58 South Twelfth street, where whisky was seized, raiders said. A 50-gallon still was destroyed in a raid on a farmhouse in Ross Township and a search for its owner instituted.

Prohibition agents say that the Myers arrested in the South Side raid is the same man who figured two years ago as one of the alleged leaders of the so-called South Side rum ring. However, Attorney Arthur P. Schmidt, who was counsel for the defendant in the conspiracy case, declared last night that his client had not been taken into custody and he would show that the accused man is some person wrongly using Myers' name.

DRY FACES QUIZ ON BIG INCOME

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(INS.)—Further indictments were promised today in the federal investigation that last night revealed a prohibition agent who, on an annual salary of $11,260, was able to buy a seat on the Chicago Board of Trade and eventually acquire an income of $55,000 yearly.

Walter W. McKeon was the man in question. He and his brother William were indicted yesterday on charges of failing to file income tax returns and defrauding the government. The two are partners in a contracting business founded by Walter.

Although the details of how McKeon acquired his fortune were not fuly revealed, it was brought out that his prohibition duties for the last two years consisted in "watching Wisconsin breweries."

Indictment of the McKeons came as one of the developments in the federal investigation of contracts and expenditures of the sanitary district under the regime of Timothy J. Crowe. The two men, alleged to have obtained large sums from the district and neglecting to account for them to the government, were released on bonds of $15,000 each.

He was unconscious when removed from the crane cab but firemen applied resuscitation with the lungmotor while an ambulance was en route. City hospital authorities believe he will recover.

TAX CUT SEEN AT ELIZABETH

At a meeting of the Elizabeth Township Board of Commissioners at Buena Vista, Commissioner D. C. Muse presented a proposed ordinance providing a half mill reduction in taxes for 1930. The old rate is 7½ mills. The proposed ordinance met no objections and was given to Solicitor C. L. Wedell to prepare for further readings. John L. Fox, secretary of the Taxpayers' Association of Allegheny County, was present in the interest of lower taxes and expressed satisfaction account of the proposed ordinance.

The budget for 1930 includes: Roads, $17,100; Board of Health, $1,200; salaries of commissioners, $900; secretary's salary, $360; solicitor's salary, $300; treasurer's commissions' fund, $1,800; contingent fund, $5,000; Simpson Howell road, $5,000; total, $33,260. The valuation of the township remains the same as for 1929: $4,792,910, and the new rate is fixed at 7 mills instead of 7½ mills.

Buggy Hit by Auto, Woman Asks $30,000

A collision of an automobile with a buggy resulted in a suit by Mary R. Adam, of Patton Township, in Common Pleas Court, asking $30,000 damages from Roland Galore, of Trafford, for injuries. She alleged that the buggy in which she was riding with Robert L. Girton along the road from Trafford to Pitcairn August 10, 1928, was struck in the rear by the automobile of Galore, throwing the buggy forward some distance and upsetting it upon the horse. She suffered concussion of the brain when thrown to the road the suit alleged.

BUSINESS BOOM SEEN BY AUTO EXECUTIVE

Leaders Predict Prosperity For 1930 as Crowds at Auto Show Set Record

By H. W. DIETRICH,
Automobile Editor.

"There will be less swagger and more sweat in 1930, which will be a good year for those who work intelligently," was the message brought to this city yesterday by Thomas E. Jarrard, general sales director, Marmon Motor Car Company.

Jarrard was one of three motor car executives who came to Pittsburgh yesterday to visit the Automobile Show, which will close tonight, in Motor Square Garden, and to address dealers of the district. Other automobile leaders here were C. W. Nash, president of Nash Motors Company, who was the guest of George P. Gray, president of the Nash-Pittsburgh Motor Company, and W. E. Fellows, assistant general sales manager of the Oakland Motor Car Company.

W. E. Fellows

SEES BETTER BUSINESS

Jarrard spoke before the dealer body of the Marmon Company of Pittsburgh in the Walker-Moore Inn, East Liberty. In his talk he said:

"I heard much about the stock market, but believe the big cry came from those who were trying to make money on the margin. The country is fundamentally sound and was saved from disaster only by a masterful business man in Washington. And as a result business will be better than ever.

"There will be less swagger and more sweat in 1930. It will be a good year for the man who believes in himself and works hard and intelligently. That fellow is going to make more money than ever before, and the same is true for the dealers. The manufacturers have awakened to their responsibility and will make it possible for the dealer to take every opportunity to promote his prosperity. In addition to this, every indication is that 1931 will be a real prosperous year."

T. E. Jarrard

Phil Roselle, sales promotion field manager for Marmon, presided. He told dealers that there was more interest being shown in exhibits at the shows this year and that Marmon did more than three times as much business at the New York show as ever before.

NEW RECORD SET

Other speakers at the gathering, which was the fourth annual luncheon-meeting held by H. H. Blumenthal, president of the Marmon Company of Pittsburgh, were: Blumenthal, who stated his belief that this would be Marmon's greatest year; J. E. Peterson, Marmon financial chairman, who outlined the company's financial program; J. W. McGarry, district field manager, and Dr. S. H. Goldenson, who spoke on "The Test of Good Salesmanship."

Fellows came to Pittsburgh after having visited five major eastern shows.

"At each of these shows," he stated, "attendance records had been broken. This is the surest indication of the interest on the part of the buying public in motor cars and reliable transportation."

He stated that he was glad to learn from J. S. Calhoun, local district Oakland manager, that for the first 20 days of January in this district there has been an increase in retail sales of 30 per cent over last year, and that Oakland-Pontiac was in fourth position in registrations in Allegheny County.

When the doors of Motor Square Garden are closed tonight the 1930 show will go into record as one which established new attendance figures for manufacturers' representatives, dealers and the public; offered more variety in cars and accessories than any other for almost 10 years; one which was dominated for the first time by eight-cylinder engines, and the one in which the front-drive car made its show debut.

Arm Hurt as Ice Is Dropped, Man Gets $3,920

Injuries to his hand and arm when a large cake of ice was dropped while he was eating in a restaurant resulted in a verdict of $3,920 damages in favor of W. C. West, of the East End, a salesman, against the Peoples Ice Company, of Pittsburgh, in Common Pleas Court before Judge George V. Moore. West was dining in Beegle's restaurant, 6294 Broad street, June 13, 1928, when an employe of the ice company, delivering ice, slipped and dropped the cake on West's hand and arm, inflicting serious injuries, according to the testimony.

BAPTISTS PLAN $70,000 FUND

Plans for the drive for church funds, including $70,000 to be used for missionary work, were discussed by representatives of the congregations in the Pittsburgh Association of Baptist Churches, meeting last night in the Sandusky Street Baptist Church, North Side. Those present also heard missionary representatives and officials of the Pennsylvania State Association of Baptist Churches. The discussions are part of a series of mid-year associational assemblies of the state association.

Northern Baptist churches must contribute $320,000 more for missionary work this year than they did last year, Dr. William G. Russell, promotional director for the state association said in addressing the gathering. He called upon those present to give their support for the missionary program of the church.

Two missionaries told of their work at the opening session yesterday morning. Rev. Robert B. Longwell, of Gauhati, Assam, and Mrs. Adah H. Boyce, a worker in the mountains of Tennessee and Kentucky, were the speakers. In the afternoon Dr. W. C. Chappell, secretary of the Pittsburgh Association, outlined a plan for a canvass of church members to be made next month. Last night the speaker was Dr. Arthur C. Baldwin, a member of the board of managers and of the American Foreign Missionary Society.

The Pittsburgh association is composed of 81 member churches of the Northern Baptist denomination with a membership of 19,000.

YOUNG PEOPLE END MISSION

A mass meeting for the young people of the Methodist Episcopal congregations in the Pittsburgh district was held last night in Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, Center and Liberty avenues, bringing to a close the central preaching mission which has been held all this week. The mission was part of the country wide program of the church in observance of the nineteen hundredth anniversary of the Pentecost.

Four series of group services will be started Monday night as a result of the preaching mission. A South Hills group will meet in the Mt. Lebanon Church where the Rev. W. Wofford T. Duncan will conduct the service, and the South Side group in Trinity Church, Warrington avenue, with Dr. George Scott, of Parkersburg, W. Va., presiding.

A West End group will meet in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. John Versteeg, of Wilkinsburg, will be in charge and a Wilkinsburg group will meet in the South avenue church under the direction of Rev. J. E. Wagner, of Mt. Lebanon.

Pittsburghers Win $5,000 in Cash

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 25.—William McHugh and son, James, of Pittsburgh, won a verdict of $5,000 damages against James F. Springer, farmer at the Beaver County Poor Farm. The plaintiffs were injured when a county automobile, driven by Springer, collided with a motorcycle ridden by the McHughs.

BALM SUIT ADDS TO HILL WOES

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 25.—(AP.)—Another legal entanglement today faced Walter J. Hill, of Livingston, Mont., millionaire son of the late James J. Hill, railroad builder of St. Paul.

Already being sued for divorce by his third wife, Hill now has been made defendant in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit, filed in the County District Court yesterday by counsel for L. M. Hoffman, of St. Paul.

Hoffman, through his attorney, Frank Drill, of St. Paul, alleges that Hill "induced and enticed" Mrs. Hoffman to desert her husband at various times in 1925 and 1926 and that because of this, Hoffman had been "dishonored, humiliated and has suffered great distress of body and mind."

Reform

CONSIDER Kate the Chaste and Lissome,
She's changed—gone intellectual.

You'll find her reading tomes by Dreiser.

You're treated with unbounded abhorrence
If you have not read D. H. Lawrence.

And, oh, these little dears will crave
A passion grave and deep for Joyce.

Preoccupied with her "Ulysses."

When they declared "Snappy Stories"!

THE MORNING MAIL

"DEAR WALTER," passionately writes Billy Rose, the hit song-writer, "I have been following some of the comments on the New York critics, and I cannot understand why anybody should complain about you chaps. I am convinced that all of you are the easiest-to-please bunch of critics in the world, most patient, tolerant and softest-hearted of all audiences. You guys have been giving good notices to the rottenest shows and casts I've ever slept through, and I suspect that you all have been so nice because you see so many poor plays that when a trifle-better-than-poor-one comes along, you give it a rave. You all seem so eager to commend anything that I resent those who attack you fellows for being vicious, which you certainly are not."

Vicious, very nice of you, sir.

CAPSULE CRITICISM

Added to our Crisp Cracks from Critical Cusses Dep't is this suggestion forwarded by William Frawley, who doesn't recall the name of the critic who penned it: ". . . but the show is mediocre throughout. Its only feature being the cast, which is good except the leading lady, who wasn't cast far enough."

THE ACE OF THEM

SPEAKING of niffties offered by some of the dramatic critics recalls the best of the pungent potshots. Corse Payton, the most famous of the Ten, Twenty and Thirty stock actors, had been in retirement for a long time, when his return to the stage was announced.

"He is returning, one presumes," flipped a commentator, "because he misses the smell of bad notices."

HEHEHEH

Then there's one credited to William Winter, the First Critic of His Time. An actor sent personal letters to all the New York reviewers the day before he opened in "Hamlet" and said in part: "I have come to New York for a just verdict on my art."

Mr. Winter summed up his performance in one line: "Murder in the first degree."

GAG

FRED ALLEN'S contrib for today deals with a man of unsanitary appearance who answered an ad for a porter's job during a recent department store sale. The employment agent had his doubts about the begrimed applicant. Finally he gave him a dollar. "Go take a bath," he instructed, "then come back and perhaps I can put you to work."

The fellow started for the door. "And listen," added the agent, "if there's any change left from that dollar——"

"Yessir?"

"Then take another bath!"

A FORM OF LUCK

They are telling of the colored actor who backed an all-colored show last season, depositing most of his life savings in the enterprise. A white friend who was here from California dashed off a song for the brownskin's show and presented it to him with his compliments. "It might help," he said.

The darky was so grateful he handed the songwriter a rabbit's foot, a "charm" he had carried for many seasons. "Here, take this good luck thing," said the colored man, "it pulled me through for a long time."

The white man took a plane trip back to the Coast the next day and was one of two survivors in the crash that followed.

QUERY

WHAT has become of the old-fashioned girl who used to choke when she drank it straight?

POOR KID

A big black bug
A Persian rug
And a built-in bar,
A ten-room flat,
A French maid, sir,
She does all that
On sixty per.

ADVICE TO A YOUNG CRITIC

The better and more honest critic you are, the fewer friends will send flowers up to the funeral parlor. One by one they will sooner or later withdraw from fellowship and good will. Even one's closest friend cannot abide criticism of himself with half the fortitude and amiability of one's worst enemy. Show me a critic with a quorum of actors and managers as bosom comrades and I'll show you a critic who is a hypocrite and a liar. Don't be afraid of being labeled a destructive critic. You will be in good company. Where would you rather be: In hell with Swift, Voltaire and Nietzsche, or in the American Academy of Arts and Letters with Richard Burton, Clayton Hamilton and Herman Hagedorn?—George Jean Nathan.

THE RETORT SWELEGANT

A PAIR of essayists were talking shop at Fourty-forth street and The Grandest Canyon. "Yes," said the first, "I just finished an article on a dramatic critic and loaned him a few words of wit."

"Don't do it," was the reply, "he will never pay you back."

QUITESO, QUITESO

It happened between acts in the foyer the other First-Night. The opening act revealed a comedian who got a laugh or so by expectorating on the floor.

A playgoer went up to a critic friend in the lobby and declared: "Golly, but you are hard-boiled. I watched you when everybody else was howling at that comedian, but you sat there with a look of contempt on your face—have you lost your sense of humor?"

"I hope not," said the drama defender, "and don't try to make me believe that anyone can spit on the floor artistically!"

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

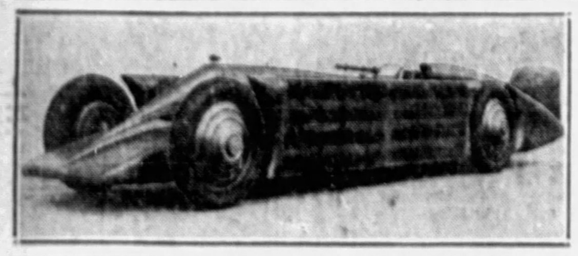
A REAL Automobile

But You Can Get Something Better for Less Than $1,000.



A $90,000 SPEED AUTOMOBILE.

The Prince of Wales "inspected" this big automobile, made by Irving Napier, built for Maj. Seagrave, a Britisher.

The car, built to break the world's automobile speed record, seems fit for the job. Notice the interesting front arrangement, slanting upward, to "scoop" up the air as a snow shovel scoops up snow.

The air running up the incline will go on about its business and interfere little with the power of the machine.

This car is built to attain a speed of 280 miles an hour, so that it could make the trip from New York to San Francisco in about nine hours, if it had a smooth road.

Any small boy and all speed maniacs will look at this engine with interest and envy.

Really it is of no practical value. Few men could drive it and still fewer would have courage to drive it. For the slightest swerve means overturning and death. For less than $1,000 a better, more useful car can be had. But the development of such engines, the careful study of air resistance will all be useful in airplane work.

This is the age of speed. Length of life depends not on how many years you live, but on how much you can do in those years.

A turtle on the Galipagos Islands, such as Vincent Astor expects to bring back on his yacht, for propagation in the United States, may live four or five hundred years or longer.

A man would live MORE driving this car for 15 minutes than a Galipagos turtle can live in 500 years.

Men add to real life by increasing speed and diminishing waste of time. Three hundred miles an hour and more in an airplane, seems fast, but speed limits have not yet been reached.

Men eventually will fly 1,000 miles per hour, the speed at which the sun APPEARS to move around the earth.

Thus a traveler anxious for a REAL sun bath could go up in a flying machine and stay up with the sun directly over his head for 24 hours, if he could carry enough fuel and maintain the speed.

Speed upon the water has not been half developed. The water is a "ball bearing" medium. It is made of drops of molecules that roll over each other and presents a perfect ball bearing system, no friction.

A speed of 500 miles an hour should be attained easily on the water and will be.

If only men could develop their brains more rapidly, as they develop machines, and other branches of science.

The brain improves slowly, human nature improves very slowly.

Since the days of ancient Greece we have moved mechanically from the oxcart and the use of olive oil for light to the airplane and the electric lamp.

Mentally we are not much ahead of the Greeks and probably far behind the best of them.

However, the earth will last millions of millions of years longer, according to science. Twelve thousand years ago we were in the late Stone Age.

Twelve million years hence we ought to be improved mentally as well as scientifically.

Jimmy Doolittle Quits

And Why Not?

Lieut. Jimmy Doolittle, known at Mitchel Field and elsewhere as the Army's crack flier, resigns his commission to work for an oil firm. His salary, not stated, is many times greater than a lieutenant's pay.

Doolittle's resignation is merely the latest of a long series which is stripping the Army and Navy of their best officers, not only in aviation but in ALL branches.

Pay of officers and enlisted men is about 50 per cent of what it used to be, judged by increasing salaries in civil life and higher costs of living.

A captain in charge of a $30,000,000 battleship is lucky to draw four or five hundred dollars a month.

Gen. Pershing alone of the higher officers in both services gets more than $10,000 a year.

Rich old Uncle Sam pays starvation wages to his trained defenders, wonders why some of them quit—and lets it go at that. He has his Peace Pact: he should worry.

The Singies

They May Civilize Us.

The day, not far distant, when grand opera comes to the people is foreshadowed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which has signed Lawrence Tibbett, of the Metropolitan, for its singing, dialogue and Technicolor pictures.

Opera is not opera, without stage, scenery, costumes, lighting. Great as the influence of radio has been in bringing it to remote listeners, the complete illusion can never be created except on the screen.

Through the medium of the singies, Americans may in time learn to appreciate music as keenly as Germans and Italians do now.

That will be an interesting experience for this country, at present too busy making a living to live.

What Is Least Important?

Opinions Differ.

Opinions differ. Some would say the Gann-Longworth case. Others might suggest parrot fever. Still others will pick Al Smith's pronunciation of "radio."

This newspaper, after profound thought, offers as its selection the marital problems of Harry Richmond and Clara Bow. Maybe it's wrong.

False Colors!

Drawn by Nelson Harding

But surely Uncle Sam
Will notice that the ice is cracked,
And that the flag's a sham.

And we observe with dread
The depths beneath the surface that Are over Uncle's head!

NOT A BIG STICK JOB

By Herbert Kaufman

DIPLOMACY, the inveterate prestidigitator and champion short card artist, has discarded trick cabinets and sleight of hand at the Disarmament Conference, and for ONCE is working above board.

The five interested powers are seated in a vacuum tube—holding a town meeting in the magic Hall of the Winds, where a hundred million listeners may move their chairs to the very edge of the council table and personally hear every word of the momentous discussion.

Had the microphone been SIMILARLY available at Versailles, popular opinion would have been a more intelligent agent in reconciling the antagonisms endlessly provoked there by indirection and Chauvinism.

This morning a myriad of men and women who never before bothered to acquaint themselves with the intrinsic issues at stake in ANY international treaty, are possessed of the qualifying facts to argue the PROS and CONS of limitation.

WHATEVER sentiment the Administration will face at the conclusion of these deliberations, it will be an INFORMED sentiment—based upon accurate knowledge and day-to-day reflection—instead of superficial opinion snatched from headlines, hearsay and demagogic interpretation.

Progress and efficient government are soon destined to demand the right of free AUDIENCE as well as free SPEECH.

The loud speaker has over night graduated into a universal form, through which war and peace, economic reform and social revolution must appeal for support and consent.

No living man can foretell the ultimate program to be adopted at London, and that includes the very plenipotentiaries in whom decision is vested.

THE initial sessions will be characterized by technical skirmishes and maneuvers for advantageous trading positions. Weeks will doubtless elapse before this bargaining phase passes and the committee settles upon brass-tack terms.

Racial vanity will waste a certain amount of time on gallery gestures, but that's to be expected.

Compromise will take its usual all-round toll, then sign up. And THAT'S to be expected.

THE labyrinth was not designed to hold men in a hopeless prison, but to keep them searching for the exit. There IS an exit in this dilemma and sincerity is certain to LOCATE it.

Had Alexander been a little less SPECTACULAR and a little more PERSEVERING, he would have discovered a method to UNTIE the Gordian Knot. He SLASHED the cord, but that didn't SOLVE the PROBLEM.

The slashing brain may MEET emergencies, but it invariably creates an EQUIVALENT crisis.

The pooled strength of America and Great Britain is sufficiently potent to impose their will upon associate signators. But Big Stick flourishes and Disraelean tactics would merely score empty victories and consolidate secret animosities to be dealt with when LEAST convenient.

It is far more important to convince France, Italy and Japan that we desire no undue advantages—that the English-speaking peoples are more devoted to universal concord and voluntary international processes, than to demonstrate our sumptuary resources or EVIDENT capacity for independent action.

World jealousy and suspicion must be disarmed TOO.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

A DISCOURAGED man has written me a letter. He is sick of life. Facing the new year, he finds nothing worth while in his existence.

"WHY SHOULDN'T I KILL MYSELF?" he says.

"I'm 37," he writes; "tired of myself, my profession and life in general. This isn't a temporary mood. It has existed for years. Now it has reached such a pitch that I am contemplating suicide. Yet even while I think of death I long for life. I long to be interested and alert and eager once more. But what will make life worth while . . . what will lift this deadly boredom? Don't tell me to bury myself in my work. I have been in my work so long that I think of it with loathing. As things now stand there isn't an interest on earth that holds me. WHY SHOULDN'T I KILL MYSELF?"

No reason against it, I suppose, brother, if life's useless to you you're useless to life. But is it? Are you? No! Life can still be made worth while!

We tire of living, not because life, itself, has failed us . . . But because we have cut out vital contact with life. Life should feed us and renew us. Life will feed us and renew us if we will stay close enough to life. But we do not stay close. Instead, we set up artificial programs and call them life. So, gradually, the source of energy is shut off and we develop a spiritual anemia which we call "boredom."

How shall we cure ourselves of a weariness of living? By going back to life. And what does that mean? Generally that means raising Cain with the status quo . . . kicking our denatured programs to pieces.

Get back to life! Get back to jobs and contacts that lie at the root of things! Jobs that will make you sweat and ache and burn . . . and tingle, next morning, with new energy.

Inconvenient? Probably. But suicide's a lot more inconvenient. Wasteful? Maybe. But it's much more costly to waste life than money.

Text for Today But godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out. And having food and raiment let us therewith content.—1 Timothy vi:6-8.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE cells lining the bag secrete a digestive juice which disintegrates the prey, and they can also take particles of food into their own bodies very much as our white blood corpuscles consume bacteria.

Finally, after a little time, the indigestible remains of the victim are discharged through the same door that served as an entry and the net of stinging fingers is spread again.

H. G. Wells

That, in brief, is the life of the polyp; occasionally, if prey is not too abundant, the spread tentacles stir restlessly and occasionally, when the creature is alarmed, it ducks back.

H. G. Wells

contracted, for a few seconds into the safety of its horny cup, but it never wanders or explores, nor does it reproduce its kind; it leads a life of patient waiting and grabbing and digesting.

Compared with any of the animals with which we have dealt hitherto, the anatomy of the polyp is incredibly simple. It consists of two layers of tissue, one inside the other and separated by a thin gelatinous sheet of non-living substance, like the firm matrix of our gristle.

It has some seven kinds of cells, as opposed to the 70 or so that are found in our bodies. It has no heart, no eyes, no ears; as far as we know, it has only two senses, taste and touch; it has no brain, its nervous system being scattered through its body and organized about as elaborately as the local nervous system that produces writhing movements in our own bowels.

Except for the mouth, tentacles, and gut of which it consists, it has no specialized organs of any kind.

At its base the polyp tails away into a narrow tube of living tissue, that runs down the branch that the polyp crowns, and this opens into a main tube that forms an axis for the colony.

Every polyp on the little frond is directly continuous with this central tube of tissue, and, through it, with every other. They are like flowers growing from a common stem, one flesh.

Occasionally a side-branch grows out from this main tube, making a clear, horny sheath as it goes, and gives rise to a new polyp. Thus, by a process of budding and branching the colony grows.

But occasionally, here and there along the central stem, there arise polyps of a new kind. Buds sprout out, at first very much like the usual kind of bud, but later developing into plain, cub-shaped cylinders called Blastostyles.

The blastostyles do not develop mouths or tentacles; they are not feeders but breeders. They become covered with tiny wart-like buds which grow and develop into little free-swimming creatures.

There it a division of labor between the different parts of the colony; the cavities of the stomachs of the feeding polyps are in direct communication with the bore of the tubular stem, and some of the products of their digestive processes diffuse along this channel to the other branches.

The feeding polyps nourish the whole colony. The blastostyles, like our own ovaries or testes, do not contribute to the economy of the colony to which they belong, but nourished by the diffusing juices from the feeding polyps, they concern themselves with the founding of fresh colonies.

The feeding polyps can move independently, and if they are cut off from the stem the material of which they consist lives on and reorganizes itself into a new colony; nevertheless, biologically speaking, they are parts, not wholes.

The buds that are produced in great numbers by the blastostyles develop into miniature jellyfish, as clear as glass and little more than a tenth of an inch across. Their shape is that of an umbrella with a very short thick handle; they have a hemispherical bell fringed with tentacles, and, hanging from the middle of it, a short stalk which bears the mouth at its end.

As they become properly developed they detach themselves from the blastostyles and swim actively and independently through the sea.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—That New Yorkers may live in the proverbial house of glass is a possibility and that many business buildings will be constructed of the same material is approaching reality. Remarkable progress has been made in experimenting with glass bricks.

Such bricks permit light but distort vision from the outside. Already a half dozen building fronts on Fifth avenue are almost entirely of glass—both clear and opaque—up to second and third floors. Their delightful clarity is the chief feature.

Over in London glass structures are in the making to counteract perpetual fogs. A perfume shop in the rue St. Honore, a few steps from the rue Cambon in Paris, has a three-storied front entirely of clear glass—save for the metal seams.

A French perfume importer is negotiating for a four-story glass building in the East 20's. This has gone far enough to have the actual contract awarded and the delay is due to the fact the municipal engineers have not as yet granted a building permit.

A millionaire in Brussels has a glass chateau and a Berlin hotel is shortly to open with an entire glass lobby. All over Europe glass roofs grow in favor. A wealthy Long Island man has an enormous dog kennel of glass and so it goes.

Those who know are unwilling to admit the present type of skyscraper can be fashioned of glass but they are entirely convinced that smaller buildings and apartment houses of not more than four stories are feasible. The overwhelming argument is in light and cleanliness.

The only manufacturing plant of glass so far is in Long Island City where mosaics are turned out. A new hotel is to have all glass bathrooms and sidewalks of glass are being agitated for an entire block on West Fifty-seventh street. Thus does the Glass Age dawn.

Statistics show the candle business has increased more than 50 per cent in New York in the past two years. Most of the business comes from tea rooms which use candles for table decorations.

The first manicure parlor in New York was opened in the last 70's. For five years it was the only one in town. Today there are more than 30,000 places where one may have such attention.

One of the first men to have his nails "done" in New York was the elder J. P. Morgan. He used to send for a manicurist to come to his house once a month. It is not unusual today, however, for men to visit the manicure parlor three times a week. And a new one is to have 20 Chinese girls billed as "the cute clippers."

The Rialto will miss Winthrop Ames who so quietly withdrew from theatrical producing "to travel and write a book." Suddenly he stopped his activities for the season by returning two plays—one by Robert Sherwood and another by a Frenchman—he had planned to sponser. He then dismissed his entire staff. Ames is a Bostonian with the rapt air of a pilgrim and in building the Little Theater fathered "the little theater movement" in America. A melancholy, artistic gentleman with an inherited income, he gave the theater much distinction. But after many years found he was financially just about even.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you devoid of sentiment? Are you guided only by a desire to push ahead your own cause?

Do you ever consider those your projects may injure while benefiting you?

You feel they should be crushed for daring to compete with you, or for disputing what you look upon as your right of way.

Those who have less training, experience and education you have no use for.

It is preposterous that they should think of meeting you on equal terms, according to your way of thinking.

You reason that if they had it in them, as you have, they would be occupying as fine a position as you have.

Not possessing the qualifications, you can't see why they should dare to interfere with you in any way.

Devoid of sentiment and a spirit of fair play, you would crush, rather than help, those who are trying to climb the ladder to prosperity and fame.
